REBELS DEFY LEFTISTS WHO THREATEN TO KILL HOSTAGES

Warning More Than 700 Prisoners Will Be Put to Death If San Sebastian Attack Continues.

CITY IS SHELLED FROM AIR AND SEA

Rightist Cruiser Says It Will Fire and City Officials Say Hundreds Will Face Firing Squad If It Does.

By the Associated Press.
BAYONNE, France, Aug. 14.—A rebel attack by airplane and warship against the town of San Sebastian in the Bay of Biscay was reported today. Rebel planes dropped six bombs.

The cruiser Almirante Cervera dropped four shells in the city. A few persons were wounded.

Government forces were reported to be holding 700 rightist hostages in a prisonship in San Sebastian. Threatening to shoot them if the town was attacked, the attack apparently was a surprise maneuver as San Sebastian was prepared for a violent bombardment by the rebel cruiser.

Despite Government threats of reprisals by mass executions of hundreds held prisoner.

BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 14.—Many persons opposed to the Madrid Leftist Government were seized and held in the town of San Sebastian, and today in reply to a rebel threat to destroy the two Government-held towns with sea and air bombardments.

Some of the more radical Government partisans said the prisoners would be killed if rebel planes were seen.

San Sebastian city officials already had served notice on the rebel cruiser Almirante Cervera, threatening back and forth in the Bay of Biscay within range of the city, that rightists would face firing squads if the vessel opened fire.

In return, the ship's commander demanded that the city surrender to prevent further damage or loss of life.

Williammen boarded both men and women into improvised prisons to hold them captive as guarantees against rebel attacks.

An appeal by the Popular Front French financial aid was backed at the frontier. French officials refused to admit 500,000 francs pleading for "millions of francs."

The handbills were signed by communist committees in Guipuzcoa Province. They admitted San Sebastian and Irun lacked supplies necessary to resist a siege.

Waiting for Rebel Troops.

The cruiser, holding off its defensive rain of eight-inch shells, was reported to be waiting for rebel troops advancing on San Sebastian and Irun from the south to gain better foothold in the heights overlooking the towns before opening bombardment.

Before today's roundup of Fascists and Royalists by Government troops, 700 others unfriendly to the Madrid Government already had been incarcerated under threat of death if San Sebastian were made a target for renewed attacks.

How many more hostages were taken was not disclosed.

Hotels and villas were searched for enemies of the Government.

"We will kill two hostages for each citizen wounded by rebel airplanes and seven for each one killed," a leftist said.

Eight Reported Killed.

Eight persons were reported to have been killed in San Sebastian during the bombardment from the sea yesterday.

Heavy guns were set up overnight by the San Sebastian government to resist a sea attack. Up to noon, however, the city was quiet. It was feared the air attack by the rebels would be launched after the afternoon.

Further supplies of food, including a ton of potatoes and a ton of rice, arrived in the seaside resort today. A gift from the French General Federation of Labor. The city suffering not only from a scarcity of food but also a lack of water, was being rationed.

The fighting near Villabona, where the rebel advance by land, was reported to have been checked. Government troops said they had

16 ARRESTED IN MOSCOW IN PLOT LAID TO TROTSKY

Zinoviev and Kamenev Among Those Accused of Terrorist Conspiracy Against Government.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—Sixteen persons were thrown in prison today by the Soviet Government, accused of the greatest counter-revolutionary plot to be announced by the Government in more than 10 years.

The exiled Leon Trotsky, now in asylum in Norway, directed the plot, secret police said.

The Government charged that Trotsky was planning a terrorist campaign, including attacks against Soviet leaders. It said he had sent five agents from abroad into Russia to help carry out his plans.

(Last week Trotsky was given a clean bill of health by the Norwegian Government after he had been accused by young Norwegian fascists of endeavoring to foment revolutions in France and other European countries.)

The discovery of the plot originally was made by the Department of Domestic Affairs.

Two of the most notable political figures in Soviet Russia were among those arrested. They are Leon Kamenev, former assistant head of the Council of Commissars, and Gregory Zinoviev, former chairman of the Executive Council of the Third Internationale.

The announcement said counter-revolutionaries "under the direct direction of Trotsky and the leadership of the so-called united centers, the Trotsky-Zinoviev gang, prepared a number of terrorist actions against Communist leaders."

When the investigation was concluded indictments were issued.

Both Kamenev and Zinoviev are serving 10-year prison sentences in connection with the assassination of Sergei Mironovich Kiroff, one-time chief aid to Dictator Joseph Stalin. Kiroff was shot in January, 1934.

The announcement stated that the investigation had proved a Trotsky-Zinoviev bloc had been organized in 1932 under the direction of Trotsky and was directly involved in the murder of Kiroff at Leningrad.

The investigation established that the order (or bloc) planned to commit terrorist actions against leaders of the party of the state," the announcement said. "Trotsky sent five agents from abroad into the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

The leaders against whom the plot was directed were not named in the official communiqué.

Four others named in the indictment—Evdokimov, Prof. Smirnov, Bakalev and Mirachkovsky—were involved in the Kiroff affair and sentenced to jail.

Announcement of the plot explained a recent editorial outburst in the press calling for a house-cleaning in the party. The press broadly hinted that a move against the Government was afoot.

Those arrested besides those previously named are: V. Olberg, K. Beniaminovich, E. Zinoviev, M. Lurie and N. Yurie—all of whom are alleged to have been sent to Russia by Trotsky—T. Reingold, R. Pickel, V. Ter-Vogianin, E. Dreizler and E. Gelzman.

WPA ACTRESSES CHARGE THEY HAD TO APPEAR AT STAG PARTY

Boston Attorney Complaints to Hopkings; Man Who Annoyed Girl Fired.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Harry Lewin, attorney representing a group of discharged WPA actors, took to Washington today their charge of enforced performance by youthful actresses at a private stag party and enforced appearance over private radio programs. He said he had taken his case directly to Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Works Progress Administrator.

The actresses charged actors told him, he said, included one of several girls who, instructed to report to a hotel room for a "style show," found on arrival "a lot of Federal men drinking liquor." They were ordered into an adjoining room to change costumes, they averred, and later compelled to parade before the men.

Others charged, Lewin asserted, they were dispatched to do bits on private radio programs for which they received no remuneration.

Leonard Gallagher, Federal theater director in Massachusetts, asserted that, faced with the necessity of cutting 42 actors from the force of 900 last June, those adjudged least competent were dropped.

"Nothing was said then about the charges made today," he said.

WPA headquarters stated the charge of one actress that she had been annoyed by a minor official had been substantiated and the official dismissed.

CHILD ALONE IN PLANE KILLED

Girl, 13, Not Knowing How to Land Ship, Crashes.

ANGOLEME, France, Aug. 14.—Collette Loup, a 13-year-old girl who took an airplane aloft for a flight without knowing how to land it, died of her injuries today.

Investigators think the girl may have inadvertently touched the controls after she had returned from a flight over the city with the plane's regular pilot and he had dismounted. It whirled off the ground and flew wildly for several minutes before crashing.

SHELL REFINERY STRIKE IS ENDED AT WOOD RIVER

Agreement Reached Under Which Plant, Closed Since July 12, Will Resume Operation.

The Shell Petroleum Co. refinery at Wood River, Ill., closed since July 12 by the strike of 750 members of the Operating Engineers' Union, will resume operation as the result of an agreement between the strikers, the company and representatives of 13 other unions, announced today in a joint statement.

The agreement provides that the 2200 employees at the plant shall return to work pending settlement of the dispute between the Operating Engineers' Union and the company. The controversy is to be submitted to an arbitration board consisting of a representative of the American Federation of Labor, another member representing the company and a third chosen by them.

The agreement also provides for another arbitration board, composed of officials of the American Federation of Labor, to settle jurisdictional disputes among the 14 crafts. Its province will be solely that of settling questions of labor organization.

Arbiters to Meet in 30 Days.

All arbitration boards will meet within 30 days. The company and the Operating Engineers' Union may present to the first arbitration board all grievances preceding and arising from the strike. With one exception, the company agreed to dismiss any employee without discrimination.

The exception is that of Don Boren, whose reinstatement was demanded by the Operating Engineers' Union after he had been discharged for sleeping on duty. The company had refused to reinstate him. Boren's case will be submitted to the arbitration board.

At a meeting with company officials and agents of the 13 unions not participating in the strike but because of it, engineers' representatives stated that Boren's discharge was not the real cause of the walkout, the company announced last week. The real question was a new contract, it was said. The company rejected the union proposal which included a wage increase of 5 to 7 per cent and clauses changing working conditions and seniority rights, and submitted a counter proposal which was unacceptable to the union.

The agreement to return to work pending arbitration was arrived at after William Schoenberg, special representative of the American Federation of Labor, and international officers of the 13 unions met with company officials.

CARNIVAL CROWD OF 10,000 SEES NEGRO HANGED

Present From Three States; Ex-Policeman Springs Trap in Place of Kentucky Woman Sheriff.

SOUVENIR HUNTERS RIP HOOD OFF FACE

Vendors Busy All Night in Owensboro; People Come in Autos, Wagons, on Freight Trains.

By the Associated Press.
OWENSBORO, Ky., Aug. 14.—Rainey Bethea, 22 years old, Negro, was hanged here at 5:28 a. m. today in the presence of a crowd estimated at 10,000. Sheriff Florence Thompson assigned Arthur Nash, former Louisville policeman, to spring the trap.

The Rev. Herman Lammers, a Catholic Priest from Louisville, administered last rites before the noose was adjusted. Bethea had professed religion after his conviction of attacking a 70-year-old white woman and joined the church.

A throng gathered during the night. Only a four-foot wire fence separated the spectators from the scaffold erected on a three-acre lot.

Davies County's woman sheriff kept secret until the time of hanging the identity of the person to spring the trap, after consulting her priest and other clergymen on whether it would be proper for a woman to conduct the hanging. She sat in a car about 50 yards from the scaffold during the execution.

All the Hotels Filled.

All hotels were filled yesterday afternoon and parking space was at a premium. Streets several blocks distant from the gallows were banked solidly with cars. By midnight the 2000 persons were crowded about the fence encircling the scaffold.

Vendors wove among the crowd shouting "Hot dogs," "Ice cream!" "Get your nice hamburgers!" They did a lively business.

Officers barred automobile traffic near the execution scene but along the fringes were cars bearing license plates from adjoining states.

Owensboro's normal 25,000 population was swelled by thousands from Indiana, Illinois and surrounding Kentucky counties, lured by the first public hanging ever held in this county. The crowd came in automobiles, wagons and by hundreds on freight trains.

Throughout the night the spectators pushed into choice positions to watch Bethea die. Thousands milled about the streets converging upon the scene. About half of those who fought their way closer to the enclosure were women, young girls and children. Babies in arms and toddlers by the score clung to their mothers. An hour before the execution, the lot was full and several thousands had surged through the gates into the space reserved for officials.

At 5:20 a. m. an outcry at one corner of the grounds proclaimed Bethea's arrival. Officers hustled him through the packed spectators to the foot of the scaffold. He wore handcuffs. At the scaffold's base the Negro knelt toward the rising sun. Father Lammers stood before him holding a cross. Bethea prayed. His words were audible only a few yards because of shouts from the crowd of "Take him up!" "Up on the trap where we can see him!" "Let's go!"

Spectators Tear Off Hood.

About half of the crowd started away without waiting the end. Several women fainted in the crush after the trap was sprung. Many persons pushed up to the scaffold and began to climb the base. The spectators soon reached in and tore at the hood, shouting as they obtained bits of it. When physicians stepped back, many hands snatched at the hood, taking most of it away in fragments, which were promptly subdivided.

Bethea still breathed when the first person from the crowd rushed to the wire enclosure about the scaffold and scrambled for fragments as mementoes of the spectacle. Dr. W. L. Tyler said the neck was broken cleanly by the drop. He expressed surprise that the heart beat continued 16½ minutes until 5:44½ a. m.

Negro Made Confession.

Bethea, after confessing to attacking Mrs. Eliza Edwards, a well-to-do widow, was convicted and sentenced to hang July 31. Failing to obtain a new trial in the State Court of Appeals, his Negro attorneys delayed the execution by obtaining a temporary writ of habeas corpus in Federal Court.

When a permanent writ later

CITY OFFICIAL INDICTED FOR BALLOT BOX STUFFING IN TWENTY-THIRD WARD

HOW GRAND JURY GOT OWN WAY IN ELECTION CASES

Found Felony True Bills on Evidence Circuit Attorney Had Not Intended to Present to That Body.

FRANKLIN MILLER FAVORED DELAY

Previous Accusations Had Merely Involved Misdemeanor Charges Against Clerks.

The Post-Dispatch herewith presents the "behind the scenes" story of the circumstances in which the grand jury investigating registration frauds voted the first felony indictments that have resulted from that inquiry.

The usual outcome of the grand jury's investigation of a precinct has been the voting of indictments against the two election clerks of the precinct, charging them with willful neglect to make the revision canvass which should have followed the registration of June 18. This offense is a misdemeanor, punishable by a jail or workhouse sentence of 30 to 60 days.

The Fourteenth Precinct of the Twenty-third Ward was an exception. The six election officials who served there on primary election day, Aug. 4, were indicted on felony charges, punishable by prison terms of from two to five years. Details of these indictments, in which the four election judges were charged with willfully omitting to challenge fraudulent voters and the two election clerks were charged with willfully keeping a false poll list, are published elsewhere in this edition of the Post-Dispatch. The clerks were charged also with neglect to canvass.

How The Story Broke.

The chain of events which led to these felony charges began with nothing less than a call issued by the Post-Dispatch shortly after noon on primary day. The caller said he had observed irregularities in the polling place of the Fourteenth Precinct of the Twenty-third Ward and that C. H. Bayless, owner of the Domes Co. Machine Co., 4431 Olive street, could tell what had happened.

A Post-Dispatch reporter, Joseph Hanlon, was sent to talk with Bayless, whose store was used as the precinct's polling place. Bayless, when questioned, said that he had observed a man—whom at that time he took to be one of the precinct officials—cast 11 ballots at times when there were no voters in the polling place.

The polling place occupied the front part of Bayless' store, and on election day he remained at work at his desk toward the rear.

One Man Cast Many Ballots.

"I was sitting here working," Bayless said to the reporter, "when I noticed this fellow get a ballot, mark it, and drop it in that ballot box. He did it again, and again. I could hardly believe what I was seeing, and it was a moment or two before I realized fully what was being done."

"About that time George Elliott, who works for me, came in, and I told him to sit down with me and watch. Elliott saw it happen a couple of times and then he nudged me, and told me to make a note of the names in which ballots were being cast."

"What happened was that the man would step outside the polling place and talk with someone, a watcher I think, and then he would come back in, call out a name, and give a ballot."

In response to Elliott's suggestion, Bayless jotted down six names which he said were called out by the men who cast the fraudulent ballots. Elliott said he had seen eight of the 11 ballots cast.

Later in the day Bayless came to the conclusion that he had been mistaken in thinking that the man who cast these ballots was one of the election officials. The man left the polling place about 2:30 p. m. and did not return.

Willing to Testify.

After talking with both Bayless and Elliott, and ascertaining that they were willing to appear before the grand jury, the applica-

INDICTED ELECTION CLERK GOT CITY JOB NEXT DAY

James E. Murphy Fired After Inquiry Is Made—Committeeman-Elect Dwyer and Con O'Brien Recommended Him.

James E. Murphy, election clerk who was indicted Aug. 6, on a charge of willfully neglecting to canvass the precinct to which he was assigned, was hired as a city employee the next day, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

He was fired today, immediately after the Post-Dispatch had made inquiry at City Hall concerning the circumstances of his employment.

Murphy's short-lived city job was as a laborer in the city Water Department's plant at Chain of Rocks. For that job he had the potential recommendation of Jack Dwyer, whom Mayor Dickmann's forces elected as Democratic city committeeman from the Twentieth Ward, and of Con P. O'Brien, clerk of the police courts, who was the Mayor's contact man in the ward before the primary election, at which Dwyer won out over the anti-Dickmann candidate.

Last Job Was in 1932.

Murphy, who is 35 years old, lives at 3950B Kennerly avenue. In his application for the city job, which paid him 55 cents an hour, he said that his last employment was with the John Hancock Life Insurance Co. At the office of that company it was said that he left there in March, 1932.

When a telephone inquiry about Murphy was made by a Post-Dispatch reporter at the office of the Efficiency Board, Larry L. Will, acting secretary, interrupted the reporter's conversation with a clerk, and said that no information could be given over the telephone.

Before going to the Efficiency Board the reporter established from other sources that Murphy had been hired by the Water Department Aug. 7, but did not immediately inform Will that he had that information.

Will, explaining that he was "new to the job," said he did not know whether he could give the information requested, adding that he had put in a telephone call for Mayor Dickmann to learn whether he should do so.

Name Not on Payroll.

There were so very many application cards on file, Will said, that it would be extremely difficult to learn whether Murphy was among them. The reporter had ascertained from the clerk with whom he had talked previously that Murphy's name had not yet been added to the payroll record, but the application card would show whether Murphy had been hired recently.

Word was received, then, that Mayor Dickmann had approved showing the application card to the reporter. When it had been examined, Will informed the reporter that: "The Mayor said if he had been indicted he would have to go. I called up the Water Department and left word that the Mayor had given orders that he was to be discharged."

Will added that "we" had no way of knowing, when Murphy was appointed to his city job, that he had been indicted.

"When did you find out that he had been?" The reporter asked.

"When you called up," was Will's response.

"But I didn't say anything about it," the reporter told Will. "Oh, well, there's the 'grape-vine,'" Will replied.

All St. Louis newspapers carried stories about Murphy's indictment in their editions of last Friday, the day he went to work for the city. Several days earlier his name was listed with those of other precinct election officials who had been suspended by the Board of Election Commissioners. Murphy was a clerk in the eighth precinct of the Twentieth Ward, where the Election Board's recanvassers reported 333 "not found" in a registration of 939.

O'Brien telephoned to the Post-Dispatch late this afternoon to say that he and Dwyer had recommended Murphy for a city job in July, before his indictment.

"Did you withdraw your recommendation after he was indicted?" O'Brien was asked.

"No," he answered, "that must have slipped our minds."

1000 REPORTED EXECUTED BY INSURGENTS IN SPAIN

Hundred Women Said to Be Among Members of Militia Shot to Death.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 14.—More than a thousand Government militiamen, including a hundred women, died in a mass execution by rebel forces at Almedralejo, a correspondent of the newspaper Diario Noticias reported today.

Lisbon heard the city of Badajoz was in flames.

The town of Almedralejo is in Badajoz Province, which is largely in control of the rebels. The capital of Badajoz is held by Government troops.

HEAD OF DRIVERS' LICENSE BUREAU CHARGED WITH VOTING 12 NAMES

John W. (Pat) Dunlavy Said to Have Used Names of "Unfound" Voters and Citizens Too Sick to Go to Polls—Supporter of Mayor.

IDENTIFIED BY 3 MEN IN 14TH PRECINCT

Two More Election Judges and One Clerk at This Polling Place Are Named by Grand Jury on Felony Charges.

John W. (Pat) Dunlavy, chief examiner of the city's Drivers' License Bureau, was charged in three indictments voted by the grand jury today with fraudulent voting, a felony punishable by a prison term of from two to five years.

Assistant Circuit Attorney James E. McLaughlin, in charge of the grand jury, said the grand jury was informed that Dunlavy voted 12 times in the Fourteenth Precinct of the Twenty-third Ward on primary election day, Aug. 4, using, among others, the names of two voters who were ill at home on election day and who were still too ill to appear before the grand jury.

Used Names of "Unfound."

The grand jury also was informed, McLaughlin said, that Dunlavy had used the names of three men whom election judges were unable to locate when they made a canvass following the exposure by the Post-Dispatch of wholesale registration frauds. It was charged that the ballots were cast by Dunlavy in the polling place at 4431 Olive street, while a deputy election commissioner, assigned to the precinct to challenge "not found" voters, was at luncheon.

The four election judges and the two election clerks who served in that precinct on primary election day have been indicted on felony charges. The judges are accused of willfully omitting to challenge fraudulent voters and the clerks of willfully keeping a false poll list.

Dunlavy's surname was on the city's list of voters at 1:15 o'clock at police headquarters. He was accompanied by Joseph Webb, a bondsman, who signed three bonds, $2500 each, for the charges on which Dunlavy had been indicted. The bonds are returnable in Judge Joseph F. Dickmann's Court of Criminal Correction on Aug. 24.

Identified by Three Men.

Dunlavy was identified by C. A. Bayless, George Elliott and A. N. Kingsbury as the man whom they had seen cast ballots in the Fourteenth precinct of the Twenty-third Ward when no voters were present in the polling place.

Summoned to appear before the grand jury this morning for the second time, the three witnesses were passing through the first-floor corridor of the Municipal Court building when they caught sight of Dunlavy, whom they had been unable to name. While two of them kept him under surveillance, the third ran upstairs to the Circuit Attorney's office.

Already Under Subpoena.

"We've seen the reporter," he's downstairs," he told McLaughlin. He was told, however, that the grand jury already had Dunlavy under subpoena, and a few minutes later the examiner of the Drivers' License Bureau was upstairs where the three witnesses viewed him and declared positively he was the man they had seen stuffing the ballot box.

Although under subpoena, Dunlavy

SEVERE FIGHTING IN TWO PROVINCES OF WESTERN SPAIN

Rebels and Loyal Forces
Meet in Ancient Estremadura, Which Now Is Badajoz and Caceres.

MANY INSURGENTS REPORTED KILLED

Leftists Also Announce Advances Near Granada and in Guadarrama Mountain Region.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)
MADRID, Aug. 14.—Fierce fighting between rebel forces and Government troops took place in the ancient district of Estremadura in Western Spain today.

The principal line of defense against the attacking insurgents was established at Holy, a town near the Portuguese frontier, the Government declared.

The old district is now constituted as the provinces of Badajoz and Caceres.

Rebel commanders reported capture of the ancient Roman town of Merida in Badajoz.

Troops of the Leftist Madrid Government, fighting to suppress the Fascist rebellion now in its twenty-eighth day, reported they occupied Navalmaral de la Mata in Caceres.

Many rebels were killed and wounded in the clash, the commanders said, and 42 rebel prisoners were taken.

Other columns of Fascists and Government soldiers fought at Don Benito, Badajoz. Field Generals of the Government troops asserted their militiamen still controlled the capital city of Badajoz.

Other Developments.

The War Ministry reported these developments in the civil war, in addition to the Estremadura campaign:

Capture of the town of Alariz, about five miles from the rebel stronghold of Granada;

Occupation of strategic positions in the Southern Sierra Nevada, blocking passes leading to the north; loyal flyers' bombardment of rebels among the Nevada peaks, blowing up ammunition stores;

A more than three-mile advance of Government forces occupying the trenched position in the Guadarrama mountain passes.

The military declared concentration of the Government forces in the mountain frontiers north of the capital had been completed with regular organized lines backed by batteries of artillery.

The official statement gave the impression a driving offensive in the mountains had been abandoned, with the militia dug in to repel prospective rebel attacks.

Plane Drops Rebel Paper.
Premier Jose Giral Pereira declared himself much amused by a copy of a rebel newspaper entitled Diario de Burgos which was dropped from a rebel plane.

The newspaper declared the Government was entirely controlled by a man named Rohlewenki who, it asserted, "does not even speak Spanish."

"Loyal aviation, considerably reinforced, is planning to carry out an offensive, attacking rebel forces in Estremadura, Burgos and Andalusia," a statement issued by a Government official said.

"Morocco rebel and colonial concentrations were again bombarded by the loyal navy. Cerro Muriano, near Cordoba, was the scene of a hand-to-hand battle between rebels and Government troops."

Military sources said the Government's fighting planes were prepared to blast the Alcazar Military Academy at Toledo, where a rebel detachment has been holding out for more than 20 days. The order for the bombardment, however, has been held up, these sources said, because the Fascists took women and children into the fort when they fled in the face of a Government attack.

Almost Normal in Madrid.
Government authorities denied a report that seven Ministers had fled from the city, leaving Communists in charge of the Government. The situation in Madrid is approaching normal, and Popular Front Cabinet members are in control of the Government. A heavy hand is being put on the military to make it amenable to Government orders.

A commission of French physicians complete review of the sanitary conditions in Madrid and informed Spanish officials the situation was good.

Several hundred members of the Fascist Falange Espanola, the organization headed by Antonio Primo de Rivera, were arrested in Madrid. Trial of several army officers charged with having led the Fascist rebellion in the capital was postponed until tomorrow.

Rebels' Air Bombs Cripple Loyal Warship at Malaga.
GIBRALTAR, Aug. 14.—Rebel airplanes crippled the loyal Spanish warship Jaime I in Malaga harbor last night, the British destroyer Brilliant radioed to naval authorities here.

Damage was inflicted to the Jaime I's foremast, the British ship said, under a rain of heavy bombs. The number of casualties was not reported.

GRAND JURY INDICTS CITY OFFICIAL FOR FRAUDULENT VOTING

was not called to appear before the grand jury.

The three witnesses told McLaughlin, the prosecutor said, that before casting a ballot Dunlavy would consult precinct officials, go outside the polling place, then come back and call out a name. A ballot would then be given him. It was stated that he did not go into a booth, but marked the ballots on a table or whatever else was convenient. Some of the ballots were placed in the box by him, the witnesses said, and others were given to precinct officials to be placed in the box.

Aligned With Dickinson Faction.
Dunlavy, a $250-a-month city official in charge of issuance of drivers' licenses and of 52 traffic inspectors who have authority to make arrests for traffic violations, was an active Democratic party worker in the fourteenth precinct of the Twenty-third Ward in the pre-primary campaign and on election day. He is aligned with the faction of the party dominated by Mayor Dickmann.

Bayless, owner of the Domestic Gas Machine Co., whose store on Olive street was used as the precinct polling place, has told the Post-Dispatch that he observed a man—now identified as Dunlavy—cast 11 ballots which there were no voters present. Elliott, an employee of Bayless, said he saw eight of the ballots cast, and Kingsbury, a business associate of Bayless, also saw some of the ballots cast.

Details of the story told by Bayless and Elliott, which led to the first felony indictments which have resulted from the Post-Dispatch's exposure of registration frauds, are published elsewhere in this edition.

The first felony indictments were voted by the grand jury Wednesday night after it had heard the testimony of Bayless, Elliott and Kingsbury. These indictments named the two election clerks and one of the four election judges for the precinct. At that time, through error, the grand jury also asked for the arrest of three persons who served as judges in the registration of June 18, but were not judges on Aug. 4, as the grand jury had assumed. The error was corrected yesterday when the grand jury indicted:

Sam Ketcher, 4717 Newberry terrace, Democratic judge.

Joseph Beringer, Jr., 4664A Evans avenue, Republican judge.

Harry Hunt, 4011 Delmar boulevard, Republican judge.

Previously Indicted.
The other three officials in this precinct, who were indicted Wednesday, are Richard S. Brownell, 4412 Delmar boulevard, Democratic judge; William Davenport, 1423 Deer street, Democratic clerk; and James G. Lane, 4434 Delmar boulevard, Republican clerk.

The judges and clerks are charged with offenses punishable by prison terms of two to five years. In addition there is a misdemeanor charge against the clerks—willful neglect to canvass their precinct, an offense punishable by a jail or Workhouse sentence of 30 to 60 days.

Ketcher, Hunt and Beringer were arrested last night at their homes and were released on bonds of $2500, returnable Aug. 19 before Judge Joseph F. Dickmann in the Court of Criminal Correction. All the bonds were signed by James Egan, 4378 Page boulevard, who also supplied the bonds for the other three indicted officials in the precinct.

Because of the unexpected outcome of its investigation of the Fourteenth Precinct of the Twenty-third Ward, the grand jury did not have opportunity yesterday to look into the Fourteenth Precinct of the Eighteenth Ward, which was on its schedule for the day. DUCK SHOOTING RULES ISSUED, 30-DAY SEASON

'Rigid and Drastic' Restrictions Approved to Cut Down the Kill.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Duck hunters will have a 30-day season this fall under what the Department of Agriculture announced today as "rigid and drastic" restrictions.

The Biological Survey said the regulations approved by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and President Roosevelt would "continue stringent restrictions on the hunting of waterfowl in order to cut down the annual kill."

"The restrictions put into force last year were intended to bring about a reduction in the kill and they accomplished that purpose," the announcement said.

These zones, northern, intermediate and southern, were established for this season, instead of the two, northern and southern, last year.

Dates for the zones are: Northern, Oct. 10 to Nov. 8; intermediate, Nov. 1 to 30; southern, Nov. 26 to Dec. 25.

The regulations prohibit the shooting of redhead and canvasback ducks and the Atlantic brant and the use of baiting, live decoys, sink boxes or batteries. Waterfowl and coot may be hunted in season from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m.

The three-shell limit on repeating shotguns in effect last year is continued and shotguns larger than No. 10 gauge are prohibited.

States in Various Zones.
States in the northern zone are Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New Hampshire, North Dakota, South Dakota, Vermont and Wisconsin.

The intermediate zone includes Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New York (including Long Island), Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming.

States in the southern zone are Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

The daily bag limit and possession limit of 10 ducks of all kinds was continued. The limit on geese and mallards remains at four.

Bag and possession limits on other species are: Rails and gallinules (except sora and coot), 15 in the aggregate of all kinds; sora, 25; coot, 15; snipe, 15; woodcock, 4; doves, 20, and band-tailed pigeons.

Mourning Dove Season.
In a number of states the opening day for shooting of mourning doves has been set for Sept. 1 by the regulations, but the season in general has been shortened one month. Seasons prescribed for the states include Arkansas, Illinois and Missouri, Sept. 1 to Nov. 15.

Possession of a Federal duck stamp, on sale at postoffices, is required by every migratory-waterfowl hunter over 16 years of age.

Last year's regulation which required that blinds be situated within 100 feet of the shore line was eliminated. Federal officials explained that this was intended to protect deep diving ducks and since canvas blinds and redheads were on the restricted list this year, the regulation was not needed.

GUILD STRIKE TIES UP HEARST SEATTLE PAPER

Union Mechanical Employees of Post-Intelligencer Refuse to Pass Picket Lines.

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 14.—Publication of the Post-Intelligencer, a Hearst newspaper, was suspended today because of a strike called by the Seattle chapter of the American Newspaper Guild, supported by the Seattle Central Labor Council.

The Guild recently joined the American Federation of Labor.

The strike was called in protest against the discharge of two Guild members and in a demand for recognition of the Guild as a collective bargaining agency.

Morning editions failed to appear after picket lines were established around the Post-Intelligencer building and members of the mechanical unions refused to pass through.

An executive of the newspaper said plans were not completed for resuming publication and he did not know whether Saturday editions would appear.

The executive said 22 out of the 80 employees in the newsroom walked out, but Richard Seller, president of the Seattle Guild chapter, said 40 of the 68 employees eligible for membership in the Guild reported themselves on strike this morning.

Longshoremen's and Teamsters' union buttons were in evidence on the clothing of some pickets.

The Post-Intelligencer executive said several employees were beaten last night, one a news room artist and the others circulation department employees.

Sellers said he had issued instructions to pickets to preserve order and to refrain from violence.

Fifty policemen escorted 20 employees from a side entrance of the building into waiting squad cars early today. The workers had been in the building most of the night. There was no disorder.

Charles W. Hope, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, said he was filing a complaint on behalf of the Guild against the Post-Intelligencer and its management, setting a hearing for Sept. 8.

The complaint charges the paper dismissed two employees because of Guild activities, and asserted it thereby interfered with the freedom of employees to exercise their right to bargain collectively.

Gov. Park Sees Election Board In His Personal Fraud Inquiry

Announces After Closed Session He Will Have Nothing to Say Until He Returns to Jefferson City.

Gov. Park, who came to St. Louis yesterday to make a personal investigation of the wholesale registration frauds exposed by the Post-Dispatch and of the conduct of the members of the Board of Election Commissioners, conferred with the commissioners today behind closed doors at their headquarters.

After spending an hour and a half with the board, Gov. Park left by a side door, unseen by reporters who waited outside the door leading to the main office through which the Governor had entered. When overtaken five blocks away, walking alone, he said he would have no statement to make until after his return to Jefferson City.

After conferring this afternoon with St. Louis friends on the registration situation, the Governor left for Jefferson City by 4 o'clock train. Before leaving, he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he would continue his personal inquiry into the situation and would probably confer with other St. Louisans who were "in touch" with it, but who were not actively aligned with either faction of the local Democratic party.

Board Explains "Mechanics."
Chairman James A. Waechter of the Board of Election Commissioners said the conference was devoted principally to an explanation for the Governor's benefit of the mechanics of registration and making the canvass and the procedure followed by the board in striking names off the registration lists.

Precinct registration books, Waechter said, were selected at random from various wards including the Fourth, Fifth and Twenty-eighth. The Governor, Waechter replied in answer to a question, did not ask for books for any particular precincts.

Lists returned by deputy election commissioners who made the recent canvass, showing the number of persons "not found," also were examined by Gov. Park. Among these, Waechter recalled, Gov. Park saw the list for the First Precinct of the Fifth Ward. It is there, the home precinct of State Senator Michael Kinney, whose voting residence is at the St. Francis Hotel, that the Laclede and La Salle hotels, operating by Alderman Harry F. Israel, are also located.

Israel is under indictment for failure to make a report of the number of guests at his hotels before the election.

The precinct list also showed 56 names of persons "not found" at an abandoned building at 7 Market street.

The canvassers' list for the fifth precinct of the Twenty-eighth Ward, where comparatively few were reported "not found," also was examined.

The large leather-bound book containing returns from the Aug. 4 primary election also occupied the attention of the Governor for part of the time.

Park Has Little to Say.
The Governor had little to say when questioned by reporters on his arrival yesterday.

"I want to browse around and obtain some first-hand information about the registration situation," he said. "I plan to talk to some disinterested people around town.

"I may look at some of the records but I don't expect to visit every ward in the city. I assume the newspaper stories about registrations from vacant buildings were correct but I would like to obtain my own information about them. I haven't determined what procedure I shall follow, however."

The Governor inquired of reporters whether any check had been made to determine what percentage of the voters now registered had registered at the general quadrennial registration in September, 1932, held under the supervision of the previous Election Board, appointed by his Republican predecessor, and how many had registered at supplemental registrations, including the one held June 18, under supervision of the present Board.

The reporters pointed out that regardless of whether the registrations were made in September, 1932, or later, the clerks who canvassed the registration on June 18 and 20 were appointed by the present Board and should have struck off all those not found. The Governor smiled, nodded affirmatively, but declined to comment.

Non-Commitment on Course.
The Governor was asked whether he would remove the members of the Election Board, as he is empowered to do under the law, if his investigation convinced him that they had been derelict in checking on the registrations.

"I don't like to commit myself to any course of action in advance," he said. "I would rather wait and see what I find out before saying definitely whether certain things are true. The Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee of St. Louis has asked me to hold a hearing and summon the Commissioners to answer certain charges. I have told the committee that up to this time I have not decided on any course of procedure."

As has been told, the Governor has been asked to remove the members of the Election Board by the Board of Directors of the St. Louis League of Women Voters, Grover W. Dalton, Poplar Bluff, chairman of the Republican State Committee, and Fred W. Pape, chairman of the St. Louis Republican City Committee.

Besides Chairman Waechter, a Democrat, members of the Election Board are Joseph Hannauer, Democrat, and Charles L. Moore, secretary, and Stephen M. Wagner, Republicans.

State Department Makes Effort to Obtain Release of J. O. Ambler.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The State Department made efforts today to effect the release of J. O. Ambler, reported to be among 38 members of the staff of a British mining company held as hostages by Government forces in the Huelva mines near the city of that name in Spain.

William Phillips, Acting Secretary of State, directed the American Consul at Seville, Charles A. Bay, to communicate with the British Consul there and "associate yourself in a most emphatic manner with representations looking to the safety and rescue of Ambler."

Ambler is employed as a small-scale consultant by the Rio Tinto Mining Co., which mines copper, sulphur and iron on 28,000 acres of freehold land.

ALL STRANDED AMERICANS
RESCUED FROM GRANADA

Taken by Air to Seville, Then by Auto to Cadiz, Where They Board Ship.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—All Americans who had been isolated in Granada since the outbreak of the Spanish revolution have been evacuated.

The State Department was informed that the Americans were taken out of the danger zone in military airplanes and were landed safely at Seville at 1 p. m. yesterday. The passengers were taken immediately in a special automobile to Cadiz, where they had aboard the American battleship, the Oklahoma, which was left behind in Granada. It is J. H. Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., who volunteered to stay there because there was no room left for him in the plane.

The commanding officer of the Oklahoma radioed Washington that the battleship was en route today to Gibraltar from Cadiz.

Mary Astor and Dr. Thorpe in Court

DR. THORPE is smoking a cigarette during a recess in the trial of Miss Astor's suit in Los Angeles for custody of their child. MISS ASTOR turns her back. They do not speak.

reason or excuse—each day she said the War baby would be back but it didn't materialize. This testimony was struck by the Court on objection by the defense.

"What did she say about the money in 1934?" Mathews asked. "She said she needed it for her defense in . . . Again a defense objection cut short the answer. In March, 1934, Mrs. Muench was indicted, charged with participating in the kidnaping of Dr. I. D. Kelley.

Cross-examination of Anna Ware, who testified in the Muench baby conspiracy trial yesterday as to how her baby came into possession of Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, was concluded at 11:30 a. m. today. In nearly five hours of questioning by defense counsel, she did not vary the main points of her direct testimony.

She asked me for it," the witness resumed, "and I gave it to her. She said it was necessary for her defense."

This time Judge Higbee overruled the defense objection but cautioned Prosecutor Mathews not to pursue the subject too far.

In response to another line of questioning Dr. Pitzman told again that Mrs. Muench had shown him an X-ray which he stated she had said was a picture of her before Aug. 18. After the purported birth on that day, he said, she showed him an X-ray also. He said he could not say whether it was the same picture. There has been testimony that an X-ray picture was taken of Anna Ware before Aug. 18.

Dr. Pitzman told once more of a statement he had given to Mrs. Muench in which he said he had observed her and considered she was expecting motherhood. He said he changed the statement at her request and inserted a sentence that he had "felt" the movements of a child in her, whereas that was not strictly true. In his testimony at the first trial he had said it was not a lie, simply a mistake made when he was under great mental strain.

Dr. Pitzman has repudiated that statement but he was not permitted so to testify here today.

Cross-Examined by Lacy.

Dr. Pitzman's direct testimony was completed in 20 minutes. As Defense Counsel Lacy began the cross examination, Dr. Pitzman removed his coat after first asking permission of the court.

In response to preliminary questions he said he was 53 years old and recounted his training and experience in the medical profession.

As Lacy tossed his questions at Dr. Pitzman in his best professional manner, the witness, with the confident air of a man well trained in another profession, pitched the answers back with a care-free attitude.

Lacy turned to the X-ray picture and tried to get Dr. Pitzman to say it was July 12, or at least three weeks before Aug. 18, that Mrs. Muench showed it to him. The witness said he could not fix the date definitely, but he thought it was only 10 days or two weeks before the alleged birth of a baby to Mrs. Muench.

Facing Lacy squarely, Dr. Pitzman answered questions without pausing and did not hesitate to say he did not recall details of no consequence.

Lacy took him in questioning over his travels in Illinois late last September without drawing forth any contradictory testimony. Dr. Pitzman stated he gave a second statement, repudiating that part of the earlier statement which said he had felt the movement of a child in Mrs. Muench.

Reference to Brother.

When Lacy inquired whether he had been influenced by his brother, Frederick, and his attorney in making the second statement, Dr. Pitzman answered, "Oh, no, they can't handle me—I'm funny that way."

"You mean you're hard to convince?" Lacy returned quickly. "To a certain extent," was the answer. "I'm really quite a skeptic in this world."

"A skeptic?" said Lacy, lifting his eyebrows. "But sometimes I'm not," shot back Dr. Pitzman, getting in the

COURT DECLARES
MARY ASTOR CASE
FORMALLY CLOSED

Sheriff's Deputy to Make New Attempt to Arrest Playwright K a u f m a n, Who Ignored Subpena.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 14.—Superior Judge Goodwin J. Knight formally declared the Mary Astor-Dr. Franklyn Thorpe child custody case closed today.

At the same time Sheriff's Deputy Ray Bogie announced he would search the home of Moss Hart, playwright and collaborator, with George S. Kaufman, in an effort to arrest Kaufman. Kaufman is sought on a bench warrant after his failure to appear in court when subpoenaed by attorneys for Dr. Thorpe.

Comment by Judge Knight.

Judge Knight, in declaring the custody case closed, said:

"In the interests of the child, for the peace and self-respect of the parents, and for the general good of society, let there be an end to agitation of this private quarrel in public places."

"If necessary, the court will take further action on behalf of the minor child, Marylyn Thorpe."

"Custody of the child is awarded to the mother and father and is sufficient evidence of the confidence reposed by the court in each parent at this time. . . . Looking only to the possible injury of the child, from further recriminations and bickering between the parents or their attorneys, the court expresses the emphatic hope that the peace of the court will not be abused."

Judge Knight declared he would place Kaufman in jail if he can be found. His name figured prominently in the hearing on Miss Astor's suit to gain custody of her daughter, which had been granted to Dr. Thorpe when he divorced the actress last year.

Thorpe Attorney's Threat.

Previously Joseph Anderson, Dr. Thorpe's chief counsel, had said he would petition to reopen the case in which a settlement was reached yesterday giving custody of four-year-old Marylyn Thorpe to her actress-mother for nine months of the year, and to her father for three months. Anderson's threat was caused by a statement issued by Roland Rich Woolley, attorney for Miss Astor, after the settlement was announced.

"The Court is powerless to prevent ill-advised and irresponsible statements by litigants or their attorneys," declared Judge Knight. Anderson said it had been agreed on that none of the principals was to comment publicly on the settlement reached after two days of maneuvering which climaxed a sensational hearing.

When the questions contained versions of factual statements not in accord with her previous testimony, she smilingly corrected the interrogator.

Lacy had before him a transcript of her testimony in the habeas corpus proceeding in which she recovered her baby, and some times sought to show contradictions between her testimony here and at that trial. The witness patiently explained seeming discrepancies.

Questioned by Lacy about her identification of Mrs. Berroyer as the "nurse" who had taken her baby from her, Miss Ware said, "the more I see her the more sure I am." Jones did not question her.

Jones, whose feeble and clumsy efforts at cross-examination of Mrs. Thomasson through many weary hours, served only to bring out additional details of his association with her and of her activities in procuring two babies for the Muenches, took little part in the cross-examination of witnesses yesterday.

As Lacy continued the cross-examination today, he questioned Miss Ware minutely about the details of her main narrative, and in a simple, straight-forward manner she repeated earlier statements. She seemed to anticipate questions which might have drawn out contradictory assertions if she had not been fully awake to the import of

MEN ON WPA JOBS

East Side Unemployed Receive Same 'Security Wage' But Work Fewer Hours.

Heavy machinery is now being used on WPA construction jobs in and near East St. Louis to do work formerly done entirely by hand labor. Steam shovels are reconditioning drainage ditches, and grading machines are being used in the improvement of farm-to-market roads.

Richard A. Favreau, Acting WPA Administrator, said the machinery was employed to maintain normal operations and cut construction costs under revised WPA wage scales which have reduced the number of hours worked by WPA employees from 50 to 75 per cent.

Hourly wage scales have been increased to the prevailing wage rate, but the monthly "security wage" remains unchanged. The result is that WPA employees work fewer hours for the same pay.

In St. Clair County the "security wage" is $52 a month for unskilled labor; $60 for intermediate; $75 for skilled, and $83 for professional and technical employees. Formerly each worker was required to put in 130 hours a month.

Favreau said the use of machinery would not cause the dismissal of any workers.

ACCUSED OF POSSESSING COUNTERFEITERS' PLATES

Youth, 22, Pleads Not Guilty; Has Served Several Terms in Workhouse.

Police of the Mounted District and United States Secret Service agents arrested Raymond Skates, 22 years old, last night at his home, 2840 Dalton avenue, and confiscated five copper plates, on which the face of one-dollar silver certificates had been engraved. He was quoted by the agents as saying he had learned how to make the plates from reading books on the subject at the Public Library.

He was charged in a warrant issued today with possession and manufacture of the plates for counterfeiting purposes. He pleaded not guilty to the charges when arraigned before United States Commissioner John A. Burke, and his bond was set at $6000.

Skates, who has served several terms in the Workhouse for petty larceny, according to police, was arrested after police received reports that he was preparing to make counterfeit currency. Secret Service agents, in their investigation, discovered that Skates had purchased the plates and chemicals used for photo engraving.

Under Kentucky law, all persons sentenced to death are executed by the electric chair at Eddyville State prison, with the exception of persons convicted of criminal attack. As is the custom in several Southern States, those persons must be hanged in the county in which the crime occurred.

The number of witnesses is decided by local officials. Under Kentucky law a hanging may be conducted privately or publicly.

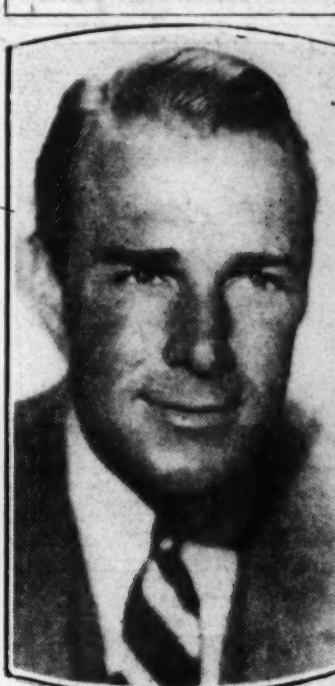

Davies County officials decided upon a public hanging without giving reasons. The hanging today was the first legal execution here in 31 years and the first public hanging in the county's history.

WOMAN RUNS TO CALL
POLICE, HIT BY AUTO

Miss Minnie Dorigatti Seriously Hurt After Sidewalk Row, Lindell and Kingshighway.

Miss Minnie Dorigatti, pantry maid, residing and working at Hotel Chase, was critically injured by an automobile at 1 o'clock this morning when she started to run across Kingshighway in front of the hotel, a short distance north of Lindell boulevard, to call police after a sidewalk altercation.

She suffered a skull fracture, injuries of the brain and right knee and lacerations of the face. She is 36 years old. The car was driven by Harry Furman, musician, 1334 Ripple street, one of two brothers who early this year lost a suit to be declared heirs of the $1,000,000 estate of the late Hugh Campbell.

He was driving south in Kingshighway, and he told police, Miss Dorigatti darted from the curb.

Those who had been on the sidewalk with her gave their names to police as Walter Inabnit, pastry cook, 4538 Enright avenue; Charles Resterre, 5508 Botanical avenue, and Miss Mary Shea, 3004 North Newstead avenue.

They said they were waiting for a bus for Resterre when a former admirer of Miss Dorigatti came up, struck her in the face and abused her verbally. As Inabnit interceded, she started for the police, they declared.

The former admirer, Theodore Theodorow, 45-year-old waiter of Chicago, was arrested at Barnes Hospital today, when he called to see Miss Dorigatti, and was booked on charges of disturbing her peace and Inabnit's. He told police he had come to the city last night and admitted the altercation, but denied striking Miss Dorigatti.

Miss Dorigatti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dorigatti, 419 South Clinton street, Collinsville, was treated at city hospital, then transferred to Barnes Hospital.

BURNING PLANE
CRASHES; THREE
ARMY MEN KILLED

Fourth Member of Bomber's Crew Leaps to Safety With a Parachute Near Langley Field, Va.

By the Associated Press.

NEW KENT COURTHOUSE, Va., Aug. 14.—Three men were killed when an army bombing plane, catching fire in flight, crashed on a farm near here last night. A fourth member of the crew jumped to safety with a parachute.

The War Department announced the names of those killed as Lieut. Willis Sherwood Marvin, Air Corps Reserve, Riverside, Cal.; Private First Class John H. Mayher, McKeesport, Pa., and Private First Class James M. Crittenden, Roanoke, Va. The survivor is Private N. D. Flinn, McGuffey, O.

Officers said the plane was on a practice flight from Langley Field. A board of investigation, composed of Langley Field officers, headed by Maj. B. M. Giles, arrived here today.

C. T. Crump, a resident near here, said he saw the plane fall. He said it resembled a comet, with a tail of fire.

The bodies were burned beyond recognition. One of the victims was thrown clear of the plane, the body being found about 20 feet from the wreck.

Private Flinn landed with his parachute about 300 yards from the spot where the plane struck. He said the heat was so intense, however, that he could not reach the ship.

The cause of the fire and crash could not be learned immediately. Flinn, unnerved by his experience, was not able to give many details.

He said the pilot ordered the crew to "bail out," but that he alone was able to get out of the plane. He said he had difficulty in opening the door and that the plane was comparatively close to the ground before he could leap.

The crash occurred about 10 o'clock on the Coultas farm, about five miles from here. The farm is in an isolated section, and an ambulance ordered from Langley Field had to wait daylight before being able to find its way to the wreck.

Flinn was on his second flight. He went to Langley Field recently from Ohio.

The four men were attached to the Ninety-sixth Bombardment Squadron.

GREEK BANK WOULD BAR FOREIGN TRAVEL

Seeks by this Step to Bolster Exchange; Wage Contract Signed With Workers.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Aug. 14.—The Bank of Greece sought today to bolster its financial position by preventing Greek citizens from traveling abroad.

The Government Passport Commission was requested to refuse passports unless it received the bank's permission. Exceptional reasons must be shown, the bank intimates, before a citizen could leave Greece.

The measure was intended to force a new Government policy of forcing the strictest economy in foreign exchange as part of a program to safeguard the gold reserve.

It was also announced that Premier John Metaxas, who last week consumed dictatorial powers in order to crush an alleged Communist plot, had signed collective contracts fixing minimum wages for workers. Industrialists, bankers and work-

PLANT BOSS SHOT, ASSAILANT FLEES; NO EXPLANATION

Henry F. Rodgers of Brick Machinery Firm Says Intruder Told Him, 'I'm Going to Get You.'

Henry Fuller Rodgers, superintendent of the Fernholz Brick Machinery Co., who was shot, but not seriously wounded, in the plant office at 1446 South Vandeventer avenue, at 4:45 p. m. yesterday, asserted to the police that he could not identify his assailant, but said that upon his discharge from City Hospital he would "kill the man and save the police the trouble of making an arrest."

He related that he recalled having seen the man some time ago, but could not remember where or when.

Rodgers, who is 58 years old and resides at 7166 Lyndover place, Maplewood, was shot in the left hand and the right side of the chest. Relating afterward to the police and his brother, William L. Rodgers, 4322 Lindell boulevard, secretary-treasurer of the company, what had happened, he said the assailant, entering the office, asked to use the telephone and fired a revolver after Rodgers pointed the instrument out to him. He declared the man said, "Fuller, I'm going to get you."

It was not made clear whether one or two shots were fired, the supposition being that, if there was only one shot, Rodgers had raised his hand near his chest. He told the police there was one shot, but his brother said there were two.

The brothers were alone in the building, employees having departed. William Rodgers, who was on the second floor when he heard the shooting on the first floor, hurried downstairs in time to see the assailant running on the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks back of the plant, near Boyle avenue.

Henry Rodgers described this man as 45 to 50 years old, fairly heavy, of medium weight, wearing an old felt hat, blue shirt and overalls.

Arthur Holtclaw, 4967 Cote Brilliante avenue, Negro employee of a nearby material concern, was passing the back of the brick machinery plant on his way home. He told police that he saw this man get up from a seat against a telegraph pole beside the tracks and go toward the Fernholz company.

Passing the plant, Holtclaw continued, he happened to glance inside and saw the man draw a revolver, fire at Rodgers once, thrust the weapon inside his shirt and run south in adjacent Boyle avenue.

Holtclaw went in search of the Fernholz watchman, who was out of the building.

William Rodgers told the police there had been no labor trouble at the plant, which is affiliated with the Alton Brick Co. The brick company was founded by the Rodgers family.

Henry Rodgers was in civilian service of the War Department during the World War. His father, the late A. F. Rodgers, was at one time Mayor of Alton.

Revenue Agents Say Procedure Is Usual Where Assets May Have Been Transferred.

By the Associated Press.
MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 14.—The Government filed notice today of a lien against property of Mrs. Mae Capone for $51,498 in income tax, alleged to be due from Al Capone, her husband, the Chicago gangster, who is in prison.

In extending the lien to Mrs. Capone, the Internal Revenue Department followed its usual procedure where assets belonging to one person may have been transferred to another to evade payment of taxes, agents explained.

HOW GRAND JURY GOT OWN WAY IN ELECTION CASES

fore the grand jury to repeat what they had told him, the reporter went to see Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller.

The grand jury was in session on that day. Its inquiry was temporarily halted because the poll books, essential to the investigation, were at the voting places, but the jury had determined to remain in session during the balloting, to hear any complaints which might be presented to it.

No complaint reached the jury, however, and at the end of the day there was no announcement except that the jury had decided to hold daily sessions until Aug. 15, in continuing its registration fraud investigation, and that Circuit Attorney Miller would depart Aug. 10 for a three-week vacation in Michigan, leaving the task of advising the jury to an assistant, James E. McLaughlin.

Miller Favors Delay.

Miller informed by the Post-Dispatch of the statements made by Bayless and Elliott, decided not to present the matter to the grand jury at that time. He said the present grand jury, which will recess tomorrow and will be discharged Sept. 11, would limit itself to the registration frauds it had been investigating.

He pointed out that a new grand jury would be impaneled Sept. 14, but suggested that the new grand jury might concern itself first with the 1934 charges of primary election frauds, now that the Supreme Court had finally dismissed its writ of prohibition which had halted that inquiry.

In any event, Miller said, if fraud had been committed on that day in the Fourteenth Precinct of the Twenty-third Ward, it would still be fraud at some later date when a grand jury got around to investigating it.

He suggested, too, that the investigation was not complete, since Bayless and Elliott said only that they could point out the man who cast the fraudulent ballots, but could not name him. Miller also raised the point that a factor in making a case of the sort indicated would be opening the ballot box to determine whether ballots had been cast in the names of the persons on Bayless' memorandum and then establishing whether those persons had voted or whether somebody had voted in their names. The boxes could not be opened during voting hours, he said.

The upshot was that Miller suggested that the Post-Dispatch complete the investigation and turn over to him the facts it gathered.

Miller's Attitude.

Throughout the nearly eight years that Miller has been Circuit Attorney, he has consistently taken the position that his function is to prosecute when evidence is laid before him, and not to investigate suspected crimes.

He has taken this position despite the fact that the grand jury has plenary powers of investigation. It may subpoena witnesses and records and has at its call the facilities of the Police Department to aid in any investigation it may undertake. In addition, two detectives and a Deputy Sheriff are regularly assigned to the office of the Circuit Attorney to assist in any investigation that he or the grand jury may wish to pursue.

Miller is the Democratic nominee for re-election as Circuit Attorney. He was nominated in the primary election without opposition, and with the endorsement of the St. Louis Bar Association.

The Post-Dispatch did not undertake the investigation Miller had suggested, but a memorandum setting out the facts ascertained by the reporter was sent as a matter of record to Assistant Circuit Attorney McLaughlin, who has, almost daily, requested various Post-Dispatch reporters to appear before the grand jury to relate information obtained by them in the course of this newspaper's exposure of the registration frauds.

The memorandum did not figure in the "behind the scenes" account of the felony indictments again until last Wednesday, when the grand jury began delving into the registration of the Fourteenth Precinct of the Twenty-third Ward, where the Election Board's canvassers had reported "not found" 132 of the 625 persons registered.

The expected result of this inquiry was the indictment of two more election clerks on the misdemeanor charge of neglecting to make the revision canvass. When such indictments are returned, Miller has no further responsibility in the matter, as the prosecution of misdemeanors is the function of Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan, who serves in the Court of Criminal Correction.

How Grand Jury Came to Act.

It was reported around the Municipal Courts Building, however, that in some manner members of the grand jury obtained information about the memorandum and that the jury, of its own motion, proceeded to investigate the prima facie case of fraudulent voting described in the memorandum.

Late Wednesday afternoon the reporter who had written the memorandum, Bayless and Elliott, were called before the grand jury to testify.

In its haste, the grand jury, which had the list of election officials who served in the precinct on registration day, made the mistake of assuming that the same six officials served there on primary election day. Three of the six had not served on primary election day. Unaware of that fact, the grand jury ordered the arrest of the three who had not served, as well as of the three who had. That error was corrected yesterday when indictments were voted against the three persons who had served in the precinct on primary election day and not on registration day. No indictments, of course, will be returned in court against the three whose arrest was erroneously ordered.

Today the grand jury added another chapter to the sequence of events in that precinct when it indicted a city official, John W. (Pat) Dunlavy, chief examiner of the city's Drivers' License Bureau, on a charge of fraudulent voting there on primary day. Dunlavy has been identified by Bayless, Elliott and Kingsbury as the man they saw voting several ballots.

FEARED NOTORIETY OF BIG FEE IN INVESTMENT DEAL

Head of Stock Trust Opposed a $150,000 Commission in Holding Firm Transaction.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Testimony that the president of a New York investment trust opposed a $150,000 commission to financial houses for handling a stock transaction in 1930 because "it may lead to notoriety" was given before the Securities Commission yesterday.

Testifying at the commission investigation of investment trusts, Trevor O'Neill, former president of Joint Investors, Inc., said he had written a letter to this effect. The commission was to be paid jointly through Baker, Simonds & Co. and Fidelity Trust Co. of Detroit for handling the sale of 40,000 shares of Joint Investors' stock to Yosemite Holding Corporation of Detroit, the testimony showed.

The fee later was reduced to $60,000 plus 20,000 shares of Yosemite stock, Commission Counsel David Schenker said.

In the stock sale, Schenker contended, O'Neill and his associates made a $180,000 on a $20,000 investment. He said they sold to Yosemite 20,000 shares of Joint Investors Class B common stock for $10 a share. Originally, the attorney continued, they had paid $1 a share for the stock.

"Under the Circumstances" O'Neill testified that, "under all the circumstances," the price paid for the Joint Investors Class B stock was "fair and reasonable."

Schenker said that, in addition to this stock, Yosemite acquired 20,000 shares of Joint Investors Class A, paying $150,000 in cash and 50,000 shares of Yosemite stock. Proceeds from this sale, however, went directly into the Joint Investors treasury.

Schenker asked whether O'Neill, who was a Yosemite director, had known the two Detroit firms were to receive $150,000 in fees in connection with the stock sale.

The witness replied he had learned of this after the agreement had been made and had written to Luther D. Thomas of the Fidelity Trust Co. that he felt the payment "may lead to notoriety for every member of the board." The latter added: "It has caused me more than one sleepless night since I heard of it."

"As you know from the daily papers, the investment trusts are coming under the closest scrutiny. I do not think you fully appreciate the significance of this payment, and how badly it would look in the press."

"I do not frankly feel that public opinion would justify the payment as reasonable under all the attending circumstances."

Holding Firms "Not Needed." Late in the day, Schenker called Ray Vance of New York, former president of Securities Research Corporation, to testify regarding his general views toward investment trusts. Vance expressed the opinion there is no need for holding companies for investment trusts, saying he did not think "one trust should be pyramided on another."

D. C. E. Wildman to Head Depauw. INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 14.—Dr. Clyde E. Wildman, professor of Old Testament history and religion at Boston University, was selected today as president of Depauw University, Greencastle, Ind., to succeed Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam. Dr. Wildman is a graduate of Depauw, the third alumnus to head the school, and is 47 years old.

KILLED IN FALL OFF PORCH

David Cox Apparently Plunged From Sleeping Place.

The body of David Cox, 50-year-old barber, was found early today on the brick pavement in the rear of 8402 Alabama avenue, where he lived. He apparently had fallen off a second-floor sleeping porch in the rear of the house during the night.

John O'Farrell, who also lives at the address, told police that Cox had come home about 10:30 o'clock last night and that he had been drinking. Nobody apparently saw him fall. The body, which was found by an ice man making a delivery, was taken to the morgue.

Sheriff Orders Arrest of Michael Accardi; Woman
Victim Identifies Him.

An arrest order was issued today by the Sheriff's office in St. Louis County for Michael Accardi, former bootlegger, sought in connection with the shooting of a young woman at a Meramec River clubhouse at Petty's Hill early yesterday.

The woman, who at first gave the name of Mary Moore, today identified herself as Mrs. Mary Lee Pratt and gave an address in the 2800 block of Delmar boulevard. She was shot once through the left thigh, but at St. Mary's Hospital, where she was taken, her condition was said to be not serious.

Also at the clubhouse when Mrs. Pratt was shot were two other women and four men. John Tucker, 27 years old, of 4042 Easton avenue, told county authorities that before they had all gone to the clubhouse they were at a tavern in Valley Park. While there, he said, a man came and asked Mrs. Pratt to leave with him. She refused.

Later, Tucker said, the man appeared at the clubhouse and again asked Mrs. Pratt to leave. She refused a second time and the man then fired three shots through the door. Two went wild and one struck Mrs. Pratt.

According to county authorities, Mrs. Pratt identified the man as Accardi.

Accardi, who is 40 years old, was the central figure in an alleged extortion case in February, 1934. He told police of an attempt to extort $2350 from him and on Feb. 26, when police set a trap at Accardi's home, 5952 Oakherst place, two of the alleged extortionists were killed in a fight with police. Herman Tipton, ex-convict, was later acquitted by a jury in Circuit Court of attempting to extort $150 from Accardi and subsequently similar charges against two of Tipton's associates, Carl Florito and "Rommie" Crets, were dismissed.

By the Associated Press.

WESSON, Miss., Aug. 14.—Sheriff W. E. Heister said today that Mr. and Mrs. Sam Flynn had been found shot to death at their farm home near Beauregard, by a man who stole their motor car to escape.

The Sheriff said the crime was discovered by a milk truck driver, Ben Furlow, who collected raw milk at the farm each morning.

The body of Flynn, 28 years old, was found on the front porch. Mrs. Flynn, shot through the heart, lay on a bed. The home had been looted.

WILLIAM M. MARTIN FREED OF DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

Case Dismissed on Appeal After He Had Been Fined $100 in Police Court.

The case against William M. Martin, a machinist, 4304 Page boulevard, based on a charge of driving while intoxicated, was dismissed yesterday on appeal by Provisional Judge Joseph Schmidt of the Court of Criminal Correction. Martin had been fined $100 in Police Court July 16 by Provisional Judge Edward Ruddy.

He had been arrested at Pendleton and Cook avenues, when his wife's car was involved in a slight accident with a police car. Police witnesses said when he got out to investigate he appeared to be intoxicated. After hearing testimony in the case, Provisional Judge Schmidt dismissed the fine on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

WAGNER BREWING CO. SAYS IT EMPLOYS ONLY UNION MEN

Replies to Action of Machinists' Local in Placing It on "Unfair" List.

Replying to action by the International Association of Machinists, District No. 9, placing products of the Wagner Brewing Co. of Granite City on the "unfair" list, the brewery management announced yesterday it employs union men only in its plant.

The controversy, according to a company statement, resulted from the refusal of the brewery to hire union machinists at $1.10 an hour for a 40-hour week. The company states it would hire the men at the hourly wage rate with the privilege of laying them off in slack times. The company denied union charges that it sent its work to non-union machine shops, with the exception of one piece of machinery sent to a shop which does work for other breweries.

ROOSEVELT ATTENDS CLEVELAND EXPOSITION

Makes Informal Talk, Then Leaves to Continue Flood and Drought Tour.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—In an informal address on an old car ferry anchored in Lake Erie, President Roosevelt told 400 luncheon guests of the Great Lakes Exposition the people of America are entitled to a good time after what they have been through in recent years.

The President said Cleveland, through its exposition, was performing a real service to the nation in promoting better national understanding and solidarity.

Turning to his inspection trip of Eastern flood areas, Roosevelt asserted he was "especially interested in seeing work caused not by depression, not by man, but by what we used to call act of God."

He said that by seeing flood and drought areas first hand he could perform a better service in Washington.

The President was introduced by Senator Robert J. Bulkley (Dem.), Ohio.

The President's three-day swing through Pennsylvania and New York, was interrupted by the stop at Cleveland, described by the White House as strictly non-political.

Representative Chester Bolton, Ohio Republican, attended the luncheon.

A small army field gun roared a presidential salute and the President's blue flag was raised at the man entrance as Roosevelt reached the exposition.

He had just completed a motor trip to two Federal WPA projects, at the city airport and at a boulevard along the lake.

Thousands of persons gave the Chief Executive a huge ovation. Multi-colored bits of paper and serpentine fluttered down from business and office buildings.

Following the talk, the President left for the East at 2:32 p. m., leaving from the exposition grounds.

A $2,961,000 preliminary flood control program for Western Pennsylvania rivers carried Roosevelt's official "OK" today.

Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, after an hour's conference of the President, Federal and State officials at Johnstown last night, announced Mr. Roosevelt's approval of allotments of work relief funds for a start on that district's flood projects.

Earlier the President had assured Johnstown residents the Federal Government would co-operate fully in taking every possible step to prevent floods.

Mr. Roosevelt promised this co-operation "so long as I have anything to do with it," while seated in an open car. He had just concluded a 30-mile trip over tortuous mountain roads and inspected the site of a proposed $14,000,000 dam on Stony Creek which joins with the Conemaugh River in the city.

Johnstown, scene of two major floods in less than half a century, was the first stop on Mr. Roosevelt's trip.

At Chautauque, N. Y., tonight, he has scheduled what one of his assistants described as an important address on foreign affairs.

Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt will renew his first-hand survey of Eastern flood regions at Binghamton, N. Y., and Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The allotments approved at the evening conference aboard his train included: $2,161,000 for preparation of construction drawings of reservoirs in the Pittsburgh vicinity; $300,000 to finish studies looking toward protection of Johnstown; $500,000 for improving river bank protection along the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers.

G. O. P. National Committee Says U. S. Violates Conditions Which Industry Must Comply With.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Republican National Committee says the immigration service "appears to be violating the conditions which it forces private industry to comply with."

"Under an order dated June 13, 1936," the statement said, "basic hours of labor were increased from seven to eight hours a day, from a 39-hour week to a 44-hour week." The affected employees were said to have protested to Secretary Perkins in a letter reading in part:

DOCTOR TELLS COURT OF HEIRESS' OPERATION

Testifies in Trial of Two Surgeons Accused of Mayhem in Hewitt Case.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Before a courtroom crowded to capacity, the prosecutors of two surgeons accused of mayhem today waited an opening statement and plunged into a technical summary of an operation on Ann Cooper Hewitt, 22-year-old heiress.

Dr. Irwin Wallace, anesthetist, gave a routine summary of an operation performed by Dr. Tilton E. Tillman and Dr. Samuel G. Boyd, who are on trial. Referring to the operation throughout as "the case," he described administering the anesthetic, taking records of pulse and finally of making out a chart.

He listed the operation in his hospital report as "sterilization." "The case" resulted in Miss Hewitt, daughter of Peter Cooper Hewitt, inventor, filing a $500,000 damage suit against the two physicians and her mother, Mrs. Myron Cooper Hewitt. Mrs. Hewitt is not on trial.

Dr. Del Prat testified a test made in January, 1935, disclosed the heiress was sterile. Dr. Prat said he conducted the sterilization test Jan. 21, 1935, and that Dr. A. Vollmer and Dr. H. E. Ruggie were associated with him. He said two separate types of tests were made and both showed the young heiress was sterile.

Dr. Wallace testified at the preliminary hearing that Miss Hewitt had forever been denied the experience of motherhood. Miss Hewitt, who charged she was tricked into the surgery in a plot by her mother, probably will not be called to testify before Monday, her attorney said. She is in seclusion.

Sues Estate for Loss of Plane. KANKAKEE, Ill., Aug. 14.—Suit for $1750 against the estate of Clifford Peters, student flyer killed in an airplane crash July 5, has been filed in Probate Court by Reoul Cote, owner of the plane. Cote set forth that under the agreement whereby Peters used the plane, it was not to be flown except in the immediate vicinity of the local airport, while the scene of the fatal accident was the Wheeler Jensen farm, 16 miles away. The plane struck a windmill tower, shearing off a wing and crashing to the earth.

SUGGESTS CITY COLLECT UNPAID TAXES FOR RELIEF

Committee Says Those Who Owe $15,000,000 Should Pay Before New Levies Are Voted.

A resolution urging the city to make a vigorous effort to collect about $15,000,000 in delinquent taxes, to provide additional money for relief, was adopted today at a meeting called by the St. Louis Relief Committee and attended by city officials and representatives of organizations interested in the relief problem.

Following the meeting, in the board room of the First National Bank, Mayor Dickmann and other city officials consulted with W. C. Connett, chairman of the Relief Committee, to name a citizens' committee to work with City Collector William F. Baumann in conducting the tax collection campaign.

Employment of a staff of collectors, to make personal calls on persons who owe back taxes and point out the advantage of prompt payment, was suggested.

Unaware of Situation. It was the opinion of the committee, as expressed in the resolution, that many of the tardy taxpayers "are not sufficiently aware" of the serious relief situation and that if this fact, together with the fact that it would be more advantageous to pay the taxes now rather than to let penalties and interest accrue, were pointed out to them, they might pay their taxes.

The committee advised against the voting of any new bond issue for relief purposes and said that "no new source of revenue are now available" to provide relief funds. The dwindling St. Louis relief fund and the absence of any prospect of assistance from the Federal Government or from the State government until after the first of next year, have created an ominous prospect for the fall and winter.

What remains of the city's relief bond issue funds is being husbanded to last until Dec. 1, and to stretch the money that far it has been necessary to drop from the relief rolls all single persons capable of working and all families in which there are no children and someone is capable of working.

Even with these restrictions, about 30,000 persons remain on the relief rolls. When the Board of Aldermen, several months ago, appropriated $738,000 of relief bond issue funds it was anticipated that the money would be sufficient, with a fund of $185,000 that the relief committee had on hand, to provide for all in need for June, July, August, and September.

The $738,000 appropriation left a balance of $600,000 of relief bond issue funds unappropriated. Connett estimates that money will be sufficient to provide for October and November. For December, there is no money in sight.

The State Legislature does not meet until January, and it is not anticipated that it will pass a relief appropriation bill until March or April, so that it will be necessary for St. Louis relief leaders to devise some means of carrying the burden through the winter.

The St. Louis Workers' Alliance, organization of the unemployed formerly known as the American Workers' Union, has called a public protest meeting against the relief situation for 8 o'clock, tonight, at Leonard Auditorium, Leonard and Easton avenues. The Alliance has repeatedly urged Mayor Dickmann to appoint a citizens' committee to lay plans for meeting the relief problem next winter.

BOLTING DEMOCRATS OPEN HEADQUARTERS IN ST. LOUIS

National headquarters of the National Jeffersonian Democrats have been opened in the Railway Exchange Building, in charge of Sterling E. Edmunds, secretary of the organization, and St. Louis lawyer. Edmunds announced that organization of a campaign against President Roosevelt would be started at once.

Anti-New Deal leaders organized the National Jeffersonian Democrats at Detroit recently, with James A. Reed, Kansas City Democrat and former United States Senator, as president.

Dr. Gleason L. Archer, president of the liberal arts and journalism schools and dean of the law school of Suffolk College, Boston, was expected here today to begin arranging a program of addresses from the platform and over the radio. Next week Judge Eugene C. Bonnell of the Philadelphia Municipal Court and Robert S. Bright, Frederick (Md.) lawyer, will come here as assistants to Reed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 14.—With Dizzy Dean playing the star role with a well pitched first inning and a home run drive over the distant left field fence, the Cardinals this afternoon defeated the St. Paul club, 8 to 5 in an exhibition game.

A crowd of 10,000 was attracted to Lexington Park largely to see whether the eccentric Dizzy would actually go through with his scheduled pitching assignment or refuse to show himself, as he did last year in a similar exhibition game.

Dean was in a very joyous mood, much to the delight of the fans who gave him a great reception. Pepper Martin entertained with some witty asides as he broadcast the playing of the game over the loud speaker system.

Except for the Cards' big first inning, it was a well played game. The Cardinals departed immediately after the game for Pittsburgh via Chicago. They are scheduled to meet the Pirates in a single game tomorrow and two games Sunday before moving to Cincinnati.

Olympic Boxing Bouts Are Poor and Work of Judges Is Even Worse

By John E. Wray.
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, Aug. 14 (By Cable).—Olympic boxing officiating may be funny to some folks but not to Roy Davis, manager, and other officials connected with America's team. Just a mention of the judging causes our boys to press thumb and forefinger against their nostrils.

That's because of six American boxers eliminated, three were given the works according to "OO Ess Ah" hired hands. They were Rutecki, Kara and Clark.

The cases of Rutecki and Kara do not matter, you could call either as you liked but with Jimmy Clark, Negro middleweight ace, its different.

Clark was the last of five Americans to face foes in the quarterfinals yesterday and he looked like a one-to-ten shot for a few minutes. He had his husky youthful foe, H. Chmielewski, on the floor almost with the first punch and it appeared that a long line of quick knockouts would see another added to Clark's total but Chmielewski is just as hard to finish as his name is to pronounce.

Rules Are Forgotten.
"Shimmy" hit the canvas and bounced right up again after being down three seconds and was he mad! He surprised the packed Deutschland Halle by smacking Clark to the floor and from there on it was anybody's madhouse.

The Pole threw everything he had while Clark forgot almost everything he knew, thereby squaring the match. The Pole was strong and eager but forgot the rules. In the second round he was warned once, and twice in the third. Then the referee decided it was useless

SOME call it gesturing. In America we might term it advertising. By whatever name you call it, they know what it's all about, these German Olympic promoters.

For example: Across the street from this correspondent's hotel is a huge bahnhoof—a railroad, elevated and subway station.

Here, before the games began, day and night, Olympic teams were arriving, each met by soldiers, saengerbunds, Nazi officials, bands, drum corps, photographers and even speakers, on occasion.

No country so poor or so weakly represented as to be overlooked. Day or night, too, crowds managed to know about it and to be present to greet the arrivals.

Two days before the opening ceremonies the usual crowd, the usual bands, the usual national anthem was played. This time it was Greece arriving. Presently through the crowd came a little dried-up old fellow in the sixties, wearing a modified fez, a white shirt with long full sleeves, bolero jacket and sash, white kilts and what might have been underdrawers, only they were worn like tight pants, leggings with ornate garters atop of highly polished black shoes.

The Americans, with the ailing Don Hume skipping a beautiful race, followed Italy's pace throughout.

The Huskies were off next to last but always were within striking distance of the leaders.

Just Nip Italians.
Germany challenged Italy several times for the lead but could not move to the front. Finally Washington hit up the stroke from 34 to nearly 40, quickly overhauling the Italians. The Huskies moved out in from 250 meters from the finish but the Italians still had plenty in reserve and put on a fresh spurt that left the Huskies' margin at the finish not much more than a quarter-length.

Gustav Schaefer of Germany captured the Olympic singles rowing championship with the Austrian, Hasenohrl, second, and Dan Barrow of Philadelphia a surprising third.

Schaefer made a procession of the race, winning by two lengths from Hasenohrl. Barrow, a distinct outsider in the race, beat out Charlie Campbell of Canada, E. Ruffi of Switzerland and Giorgio of Argentina in that order.

Schaefer, succeeding to the crown won in 1932 by Bobby Pearce, great Australian, chalked up Germany's third successive victory in the Olympic rowing finals. Earlier in the day the Teutons had captured the finals for four-oared shells with coxswain and for paired-oared shells without coxswain.

BROWNS TO PLAY IN CLEVELAND DURING LEGION CONVENTION
Two single games remain to be played in the Browns' series with the Cleveland Indians, single contests being on the program for tomorrow and Sunday. Today's single game and that of Sunday were substituted for doubleheaders when two games were transferred to Cleveland, to be played in September during the national convention there of the American Legion.

Last year, when the Legion met in St. Louis, the Cardinals' schedule was re-arranged so that the Redbirds could play at Sportsman's Park when the ex-soldiers were in the city.

ELDORADO, Ark., Aug. 14.—The Aubuchon-Dennison American Legion junior baseball team of St. Louis, champions of Missouri, lost the first game of a three-game series to the Eldorado team, Arkansas champions, here yesterday.

The score was 9 to 8 with Eldorado piling up an early lead and the visitors coming from behind to threaten in the late frames.

A six-run lead in the first two innings proved too much for St. Louis to overcome although the Missourians had one big inning in which they pushed over five runs.

Eldorado scored twice in the second, added four more runs in the third and completed its scoring with three in the fifth. It was in the first half of the fifth that St. Louis staged its five-run rally. Two more were added in the seventh and a ninth inning flare-up was cut short after one runner had crossed the plate.

Kahre, St. Louis shortstop, was the leading hitter of the afternoon, slugging out "three for five," while Powers was responsible for the run in the ninth, connecting for a triple. Gulser and Cunningham, with two for three each, led the Eldorado attack.

Each team used two hurlers, Haley and Womack working on the mound for St. Louis with Moran behind the plate. Graham and Bolding took turns in the box for Eldorado with Forsythe doing the relieving.

Six errors, four by the visitors and two by the home team, marred the contest. The visitors appeared nervous after their trip and played a somewhat ragged game at times, but local fans were impressed by the team and look forward to two more close contests.

There is a possibility the teams may turn to night baseball for the next two contests, with the second contest slated for Saturday night unless present plans are changed. In event the third contest is necessary it would be played Saturday night.

The teams are meeting here for the right to go to Charlotte, N. C., for the Southern finals in the Legion baseball playoff series. Eldorado ended the series with a sweep of the State tournament last week while the Missouri champions also annexed their title a few days ago.

After the Hoosiers landed on Barney Mussell for seven runs in the first inning, Steve Karnish went to the mound for Eccore and held them to four hits, striking out 10 during the rest of the game.

Browns Club in Financial Position to Carry on for Ten Years, Von Weise Says

By W. J. McGoogan.

Louis B. von Weise, president of the Browns, was in St. Louis today and this afternoon saw the club play at Sportsman's Park for the first time this season, and while admitting disappointment over the Browns' standing, declared the club was in fine shape and that the management was eager and ready to do anything to build up the team.

In St. Louis to attend to matters pertaining to the estate of Phil de Catesby Ball, late owner of the Browns, Von Weise said his visit had no sign of relation to the affairs of the ball club. He planned to depart for his home in New York at 6 p. m.

Club in Good Financial Standing.
"We are in the same position we have outlined before," said the executive. "The ball club is in good financial standing. Over a 10-year period, from 1920 to 1930, in which the club paid only one dividend, Mr. Ball saw to it that a real reserve was established for the club. The reserve was built up from earnings of the club. In fact, from the time Mr. Ball bought the Browns from Robert Lee Hodges, he handled it so well that he never had to add anything to his original investment for purchase. When the grandstand was rebuilt in 1926, the entire cost of $700,000 was met with earnings of the club."

"When Mr. Ball died, he left the ball club in such fine shape that we would be able to carry on for 10 years with the reserve fund. We are ready today to buy any player Hornsby (Manager Rogers Hornsby) wants."

"At no time have we sold a player because we needed money. When Buck Newsom was sold to Washington, it was not because we wanted or needed $40,000. But Newsom had lost about six games in succession and it had become apparent that he and Hornsby were not going to get along. Hornsby decided Buck was not of the temperament that would fit in with the Browns' plans. So Newsom was sold."

Was Offered $70,000 for Player.
"We have been offered up to $70,000 for one or four players. But we didn't take it because we knew we were not going to build up a winning combination if we sold stars as rapidly as they developed."

"We are continuing to watch for players who would fit into Hornsby's plans and when they are available, we will buy them."

"Well, does that mean that you are entirely satisfied with Hornsby's leadership of the Browns?" he was asked.

"Our attitude toward Hornsby, who has a three-year contract, has not changed. And whenever we hear of a player he wants to add to his squad, we will do our best to get that player."

"The likelihood of error is emphasized by the fact that no one yet has heard a single person, whether fellow umpire, player, press member—either local or visiting—or spectator, attempt to uphold the ruling as correct; while even visiting members of the press and Chicago radio sports announcers have severely criticized the decision as obvious and patent error."

"Even though Umpire Stewart thought he was correct, when the decision meant the outcome of the ball game, and when he must certainly have realized that he was receiving more than the usual protest on a decision made on a close play, fair and impartial, would have caused him to at least consult with the two other umpires of the play had been. Refusal to do so, must, under the circumstances, convict the umpire of either lack of desire to be fair, or of an exaggerated egotism, making him wholly unfit for such a position."

"I feel that the public which supports the game—and as a necessary incident, the umpires—is entitled to look to you for a full investigation of the matter, not of desire to be fair, or of an exaggerated egotism, making him wholly unfit for such a position."

SIMONS SEEKS THIRD PUBLIC PARKS TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

The list of entries for the National Public Parks tennis championship which opens here next Monday showed a total of 67 men and women players up to this morning. According to the records in the office of Frank Sullivan, in the Park Department, the entry list contains players from 25 cities in 15 states, Hawaii and the District of Columbia.

Simons of Louisville, headed the list of 10 entries received today. Simons won the men's singles title in 1932 and 1933 and was runner-up to Barnard Welsh, present champion, in the 1934 tournament at Minneapolis. He also won the semifinals at New Orleans last year.

Of all the players to win the National Parks singles title Simons has perhaps the most "natural" strokes. While he does not drive as hard as some players he has graceful strokes and they are usually well placed. He has been in many tough battles in recent years, yet goes through them with a smile and never seems to get ruffled at surrounding conditions. He is a former champion of M. J. McLaney and Earl S. Kissinger in the men's events while Anna Koll will represent the Southern city in the women's singles. McLaney is a Louisiana State University player who has won several tournaments in his district. This year, M. J. Koll was semifinalist in the National Parks tournament last year.

Harry Wais and Paul Sullivan will represent Pittsburgh in the men's event, while Mrs. Jean Artzberger and Mrs. Helen Artzberger will represent the women's singles. Mrs. Artzberger has played in a number of national tournaments but has never won the title.

Other late entries include Helen Eage, Mrs. Andrew Russek and Melvin C. Capel, Jr. of Hightstown, O., and Harris W. Everett from Jacksonville, Fla. The two entries from Hawaii, Chinn Sunn and Bert Lighmiller are expected to arrive today, completing their 4300-mile trip from Honolulu.

EXPERTS SLOW TO PREDICT OUTCOME OF SHARKEY-LOUIS BOUT

OBSERVERS ARE VERY CAREFUL AS RESULT OF RECENT UPSETS

Jack Appears to Be Good Physically but Slow—Brown Bomber Seems Mystified and Bewildered

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Fight experts, who clucked far out on a slippery elm tree limb and crashed to earth when Max Schmeling suddenly turned from condemned man to executioner, are wearing poker faces as the hour nears for Joe Louis to make his comeback against old salt Jack Sharkey Tuesday night.

Getting definite opinions from the boys who once were so free and easy with their predictions that Max Baer would smash Jimmy Braddock and that Louis would execute Schmeling, is like getting the real low down on the market situation from a close-mouthed Wall Street operator. With two strikes against them, they're waiting for a base on balls.

A survey failed to reveal one smart observer who would pick the Brown Bomber or the garrulous Sharkey. He consensus, sprinkled with ifs, runs like this:

"If form and youth count, Louis should win. There's no question but what Sharkey is washed up. Yet, Louis looks mystified and bewildered. If Louis wins convincingly, he probably will be a far greater fighter than before; if he loses, you can forget about him and the whole business. Heavyweight row will be an old man's home with half a dozen former champions seeking their old crowns back."

Sharkey Unimpressive.
Physically, Sharkey looks as good as ever. Even his once bulging stomach has gone streamline. Yet, he's slow and his punches don't carry the old time zip. Braddock, Schmeling or Baer probably would make him wish he were back on the porch of his $100,000 mansion just outside of Boston.

Sharkey, a bit mellowed and less loquacious, isn't kidding himself. He doesn't claim to be a new Sharkey.

"Don't try to kid the public," he reflected during a fanning bee. "Nowadays, the average kid of 8 to 10 knows more than we did when we were twice that age. He listens to the radio and hears the smartest men in the world talk and the messages sink in."

"Why peddle all this hokum about 'New Sharkey' to the fans?" asked Jack as he turned to press agent Doc Morris. "I'm the same guy, a little older but with some more horse sense in my head. Nope, I don't get all excited any more. I've got more horse sense, I'll do my best against Louis and if it isn't good enough, why—"

Johnson Visits Sharkey.
One of Sharkey's frequent camp visitors is Jack Johnson, one of the first ex-fighters who insisted Louis was a greatly overrated fighter. As he and Sharkey talked over the old fighters, they discovered that nine out of 10 heavyweight champs were doing all right by themselves.

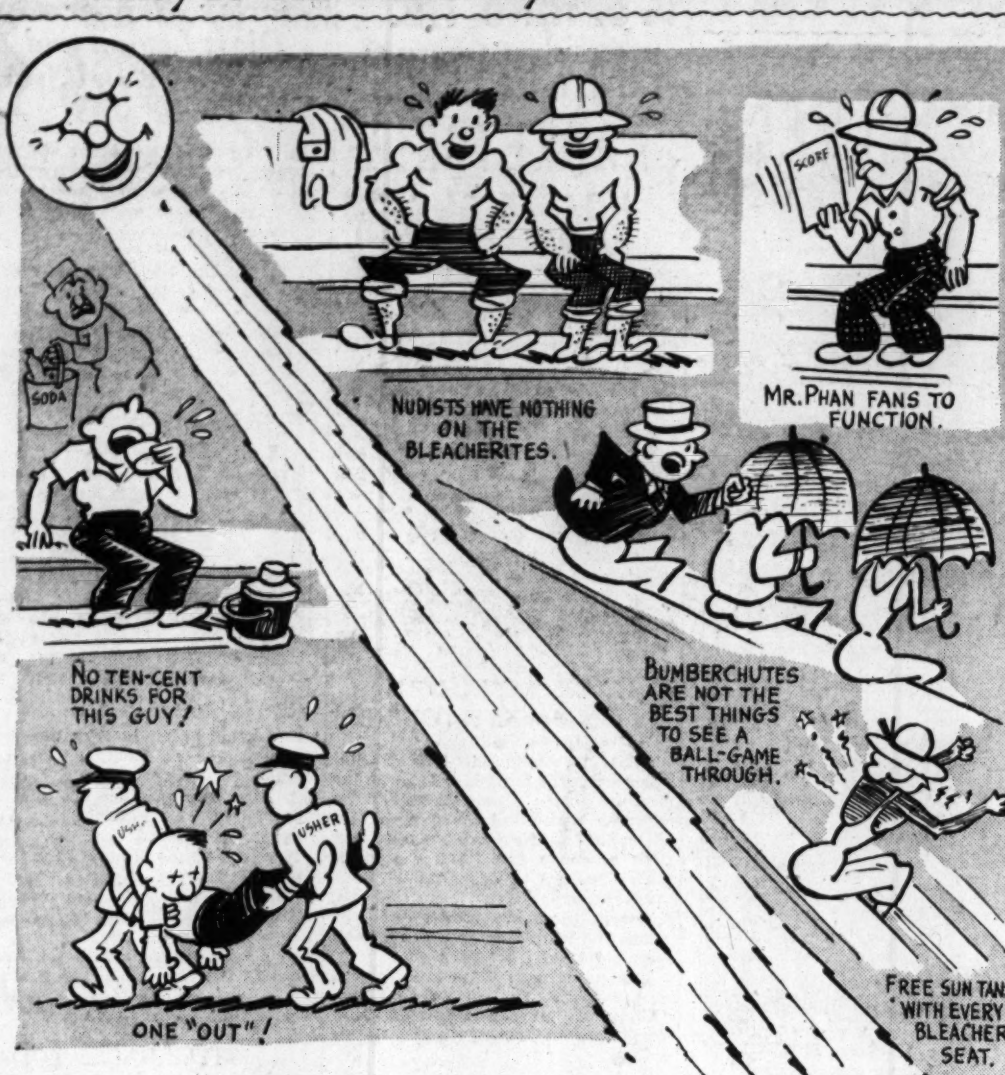

"You ought to know Jess Willard," mentioned Sharkey. "Last I heard, he was running an open air fruit and vegetable stand around Los Angeles and refereeing wrestling matches on the side."

"I'm only slightly acquainted with the gentleman," grinned L.J. Arthur. "It's been so long since we met. Do you remember Jack Dempsey?"

"Will I ever forget him?" glowed Sharkey.

As they ran down the list of former champs, it was revealed that all were in good health except Primo Carnera, who returned to Italy recently as a physical breakdown. Jim Jeffries is in Burbank, Cal., and owns enough real estate to do well. Tommy Burns promotes fights in the West. Gene Tunney, sitting on top of the world, is going into politics with plenty of money in his pockets. Dempsey gets something like $25,000 a year for fronting for "Jack Dempsey's Restaurant." Schmeling, fairly rich, is trying to get the title back and so is Baer.

were timed in 4:36.0 flat. Germany's time was 4:36.8 and the Americans 4:40.2.

The Americans, Elizabeth Ryan, Bernice Lapp, Mavis Freeman and Olive McKean, led through the second lap and thereafter fell back. Germans held a slight margin but Miss Mastenbrook passed Gisela Arendt with her final stroke.

Medals Is Easy Winner.
Terada and Flanagan went well ahead of the swim. Flanagan, who was second in the 100-meter, was passed when Terada let out and put daylight between him and the rest of the field. Flanagan made little effort to stay with the Japanese, since the first three in each heat and the fastest fourth qualify for tomorrow's final.

The Japanese was clocked in 19 minutes 48.6 seconds; Flanagan, 19:59.4; Leivers, 20:10.1; and Christy, 20:25.8.

Jack Medina of Seattle, winner of the 400-meter free style crown, won the second 1500 semifinal heat in 19:42.8, finishing 20 meters ahead of Sunao Ishihara of Japan, with another Nipponese, Shumpei Uto, taking third and Heinz Arendt of Germany, fourth.

Ishihara and Uto were timed in 19:53.9 and 19:55.1, respectively. The German was caught in 19:56.1, gaining the fourth qualifying place and eliminating Christy.

Reizo Koike of Japan won the first semifinal heat in the men's 200-meter breast stroke event in which the first three in each heat and the fastest fourth qualify for the final.

Balke of Germany was second, Saburo Ito of Japan, third, and fourth, Koike's time was 2:44.5, two seconds slower than the new Olympic mark made yesterday in the trials by Detsuo Hamuro, another Japanese. Kaye was clocked in 2:49.2.

American Takes Second.
Johnny Higgins of Providence placed second in the men's second and last semifinal heat. The Japanese star was clocked in 2:43.4, six-tenths of a second faster than Higgins. Jack Kaaley of Detroit finished sixth and was eliminated.

Idelfonso of the Philippines was fourth, clocked in 2:46.8, and gained the seventh qualifying place, resulting in the elimination of Kaye.

Wayne Leads Divers.
Although the favored Marshall Wayne of Miami led at the end of the compulsory half of the competition, there were unmistakable signs that the fight for the Olympic men's platform diving championship may not produce another title runaway by American aerial artist.

The superbly-poised Floridian, Chairman James Conzelman of the Bottomley Cow Committee early today announced completion of arrangements for "Sunny Jim's" day at Sportsman's Park tomorrow afternoon when the good-humored first sacker will be presented with a Jersey cow just prior to the Browns' game with the Cleveland Indians.

"I am free to say," a statement by Conzelman said in part, "that the cow is in the city and is staying at a local barn. Incognito. She will be permitted to see no one—except a man who brings her hay—until the actual presentation to Mr. Bottomley tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Bottomley, of course, is at liberty to come and go as he pleases."

Chairman Conzelman also announced that the contest to select a name for "Sunny Jim's" heifer would be decided at a meeting of Grete Fredericksen of Denmark, who finished third and joined Miss Mastenbrook and Mrs. Wingard in qualifying for the final, led to the 200-meter mark, but the Dutch star forged ahead in the next 100 meters and won easily, virtually coasting to the finish line. BEUSTRING WINS OVER BEAUHULD IN RETURN BOUT

Roland Beustring, amateur welterweight boxer, gained revenge over Al Beauhuld last night in a return boxing bout held at the West Side Softball Park. As in last week's bout, the fight was close all the way, but unlike last week, Beustring had the winning margin, his speed offsetting Beauhuld's heavier blows.

In another interesting welterweight match, Oscar Gardner, Cleveland, won from Al Brendle, local champion in a fast bout. Brendle's usual fast attack couldn't break through Gardner's defense, while the Cleveland boxer, easily reached Brendle through his wide open defense.

Bob Abel and Jimmy O'Brian, two 70-pound boys put on a clever exhibition.

The paid attendance was 1394. Receipts were $365.50. City tax was $18.25, and State tax, $28.25.

The results:

Roland Beustring, West End Gym, defeated Al Beauhuld, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 127 pounds.

Oscar Gardner, Italian Club, defeated Al Brendle, St. Louis A. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 125 pounds.

Mary Lou Petty of Seattle, clocked in 5:45.9, was fourth. She stood no better than sixth until the end of 300 meters, when she speeded up her smooth stroke and passed Carlsen of Denmark and Timmermans of Holland.

Miss Petty's time was the same as that of Catherine Wagner of Holland, who was fourth in the first heat. Thus, as fastest fourths, they gained the final.

Miss Hveger's time was 5:33.7, considerably slower than her new record. The South American was clocked in 5:42.3, while the Japanese swimmer was caught in 5:43.5.

JUNIOR OLYMPIC FINALS TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The long six weeks of preliminaries for the Greater St. Louis Junior Olympic track and field meet ended yesterday and the athletes that came through successfully were resting today for the final competition tomorrow afternoon at Francis Field.

Boys and girls from the ages of 12 to 19 took part in the preliminaries that were held in St. Louis, St. Louis County, and Southern Illinois during the past weeks and most of the best athletes among them kept their interest long enough to qualify for the finals.

While the athletes may not be in such good condition as they are during school days, the fact that they are still reporting to the starter is proof of their great interest in track. Most of the senior and intermediate boys were standouts in the past high school track season.

There are about 250 athletes who will take part in tomorrow's program that will begin at 1:30 o'clock and is supposed to end at 5:30 o'clock. Thirty-three events are scheduled in the five divisions, senior, intermediate, and junior boys; senior and junior girls.

Bob Soldsosky, Roosevelt High sprinter, ran the 100-yard dash in 16.5 seconds yesterday in his semifinal heat, beating Sam Gallo by a slight margin. Soldsosky's time was two-tenths of a second better than that made by the best senior in Tuesday's preliminaries.

FIXING OF PRICES BY WHEAT BOARD VOTED IN FRANCE

Last Major Item on Blum's Economic Program Passed After All-Night Session.

CO-OPERATIVES TO HANDLE MARKETING

Increase to Be Fixed in National Surveys—Control Over Quotations for Flour and Bread.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The French Parliament, after an all-night session, passed today the wheat board bill, the last major item on the Socialist Government's economic program. Both houses adjourned at 6:45 a. m.

The new law provides for price-fixing in the wheat market and the marketing procedure largely in the hands of co-operatives. Farmers are instructed, under the law, to sell only to registered co-operatives and millers are to buy only from the same organizations. Provision was made for national surveys, under the supervision of the board's council, to determine the wheat and the harvest must be declared under similar conditions.

The council is to fix definite prices for wheat, flour and bread. Disagreement should arise in the council, the Cabinet would take over its duties.

The Government will appoint all members of the council, constituted from farmers, millers, bakers, retailers and others. The measures, setting up a National Professional Wheat Office, went back and forth between the two houses eight times before the Senate yielded to the Chamber of Deputies from its insistence on immediate control.

Noisy scenes marked the final Chamber session before which Premier Blum appeared as the early morning sun streamed in the windows. He expressed satisfaction over enactment of his economic program and forecast "good effects" on the country. Leftists applauded their leader vigorously, while Rightists shouted, "No, no!"

Louis Marin, opposition leader, asserted Blum "pronounced panegyric of his own ministry" and predicted "disastrous consequences" from the program.

Nationalist cries of "Long live France" were countered by shouts from Leftists "Long live the People's Front."

BARRETT PROMISES TO RID STATE OF PENDERGASTISM

Nominee for Governor Says He Will Do This by Giving People Honest Elections.

CASSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 14.—Jesse W. Barrett, Republican nominee for Governor, speaking at the Cassville reunion yesterday, promised if elected to rid the State of "Pendergastism" and that vicious system which we know as "Pendergastism."

"Until the primary," Barrett said, "the people had their choice between two methods. The true Democrats who hoped to regain their party as well as their State voted for William Hirth. The Republicans voted for me.

What happened now to be the only instrumentality by which Missouri can be freed and redeemed. I accept the responsibility which this situation creates. When I am elected Governor I shall out every corrupt, wasteful and inefficient Pendergast appointee now holding State office.

"But I shall do more than that. I promise to destroy and forever and the vicious system which we know as 'Pendergastism.' And I shall accomplish it by the simple and efficient method of giving to Missouri clean and honest elections. When our registration lists in the two large cities are purged and the thousands of false registrations removed and when election judges honestly and faithfully count the ballots, 'Pendergastism' will be no more.

Col. Knox Calls New Deal 'Most Expensive Amateur Hour;' Says Voters Will Give It the Gong

Addressing West Virginia Republican Convention, He Ridicules 'Three Years of Continuous Economic Vaudeville.'

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 14. Col. Frank Knox, Republican vice-presidential nominee, compared the Roosevelt administration to "three years of continuous economic vaudeville" in a speech before the West Virginia State Republican Convention here last night.

"It has been a grand show," he said. "In the words of the theatrical press agents, it has been stupendous and colossal. In one ring we have had Mr. Ickes, with his famous illusions act, giving the people illusions of permanent public work and better housing. In another ring we have had Mr. Wallace, in his famous disappearing act, in which he makes food and clothes disappear before the eyes of the people. In another ring we have had Mr. Morgenthau, with his famous juggling and balancing act, in which he juggles the dollar while trying to balance the budget. It has been the most prolonged and the most extensive amateur hour in history. In November, the American people will give all these performers the gong."

He said the Republican party would encourage forces that guarantee for the future American worker shorter hours, higher wages and greater social opportunities, and advocated a "share-the-wealth development" based on extension of ownership of corporation shares by workers.

The speech did not touch upon constitutional issues.

The text of Col. Knox's address, as prepared for delivery, follows:

Mr. Chairman, Members of the Republican party of West Virginia: I judge from the size of this gathering that there are a good many Republicans in West Virginia. It is a great pleasure to greet you. You are veterans of the political wars, and the political wars in your State are real wars. The State of West Virginia was born in a time of national division on issues vital to the life of the nation. Your people were nurtured in political controversy. I have the feeling that a West Virginia Republican is a very real Republican, with a large chip on his shoulder.

I judge, also, from the greeting you have given me, that you Republicans of West Virginia are enthusiastic about the future. You are right. From Maine to California there is a great ground swell of public support of the Republican campaign and of the Republican candidate for the presidency, Gov. Alf Landon. You have good reason for your confidence in the results of the November election.

Let me tell you the real reason why our ticket will win next November. The fundamental reason is that the American people are practical people. They cannot be fooled indefinitely. It was the first Republican President in our history who said you can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all the time, but you cannot fool all the people all the time.

"Too Expensive a Luxury." In the American people there is a canny streak of common sense. The abstractions of economic theory have little appeal to them. But they are themselves shrewd and practical economists. They understand the eternal verities in a hard practical sense. And they know that the present administration is too expensive a luxury to continue four more years.

What the American people got was three years of continuous economic vaudeville. It has been a grand show. In the words of the theatrical press agent, it has been stupendous and colossal. In one ring we have had Mr. Ickes, with his famous illusions act, giving the people illusions of permanent public works and better housing. In another ring we have had Mr. Wallace, in his famous disappearing act, in which he makes food and clothes disappear before the eyes of the people. In another ring we have had Mr. Morgenthau, with his famous juggling and balancing act, in which he juggles the dollar while trying to balance the budget. It has been the most prolonged and the most expensive amateur hour in history. In November, the American people will give all these performers the gong.

It has been a grand show. But the people have grown tired of it. There are not enough breathing spells between the acts. It costs too much. The people have grown nervous, watching the glittering balls juggled in mid-air. Too many have been broken. Even the Democrats are walking out on the show.

Some cynic has said that Republicans are ungrateful. Another

TERRORISTS KILL MAYOR AT HEBRON, PALESTINE

Troops Sent From Jerusalem; Father, Three Children Die in Anti-Jewish Bombing.

HEBRON, Palestine, Aug. 14.—Troops sent from Jerusalem patrolled Hebron today after terrorists shot and killed Mayor Nassar Eddine last night. The number of casualties in an explosion of a bomb buried at a Jewish home in Safed last night by terrorists rose to four rose to four today with the death of a third child. Alter Unger, the father, and two children were killed outright.

ITALY EXTENDS CHILD-BIRTH INSURANCE TO FARM WOMEN

Peasant Mothers to Receive $8.50 and Nursing Assistance Under Plan.

ROME, Aug. 14.—The Fascist Government has extended to 600,000 farm women the benefits of child-birth insurance hitherto received only by women employed in commerce and industry. The plan approved by the Council of Ministers requires employers to contribute five lire a year (about 45 cents) for each woman. The women must contribute two lire each. The State puts up whatever more is necessary to pay 100 lire (about $8.50) on the birth of a child. In addition, the insurance provides for nursing assistance hitherto denied many peasant women.

It is estimated some 60,000 peasant families will benefit from the provision annually.

POLAND ASSURES FRANCE OF MILITARY ALLIANCE

Pledge Regarded as of Great Importance; Hint of French Loan for Rearmament.

WARSAW, Aug. 14.—Poland gave assurance yesterday that Franco-Polish Alliance will be the cornerstone of its military policy. The pledge of continued alliance was regarded here as of great importance, and informed sources hinted it might presage a loan from France to speed rearmament.

Inspector-General Edward Rydz-Smigly of the army gave the assurance to Gen. Marie Gustave Gamelin, Chief of Staff of the French Army, in a two and one-half hour conference here, official sources said. While remaining faithful to the French ally, it was said, Poland retained its right to freedom of action in other fields.

NEW TRADE TREATY APPROVED BETWEEN U. S. AND NICARAGUA

Designed to Restore Commerce Recently Taken by Germany, Britain and Japan.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 14.—A new commercial treaty with the United States was approved last night by Congress. The trade treaty between Nicaragua and the United States was designed to increase business between the two countries. It was signed in March by the Nicaraguan Foreign Minister and Arthur Bliss Lane, United States Minister, and sent to Congress. Statistics indicated the United States gradually was losing Nicaraguan trade to Germany, Great Britain and Japan. In 1935 Nicaragua bought 50 per cent of her imported goods in the United States, compared with 59 per cent the previous year and 70 per cent 10 years before.

TRUSTEES TO LIQUIDATE AMOSKEAG CO. ELECTED

Three Men Chosen by Creditors and Bondholders of Big Textile Concern.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Creditors and bondholders of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. of Manchester, N. H., today elected three trustees, two of whom had been previously appointed by the court to serve temporarily, to liquidate the company. The trustees, Frederic C. Dumaine Sr., treasurer of the company; Joseph P. Carney, New England manager of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and J. Parker Straw, former superintendent of the company's mills, will be required to furnish bonds of $50,000 each.

Liquidation of the big textile concern was ordered recently by Federal Judge George C. Sweeney. Edward R. Hale, counsel for Frederic H. Prince, Boston and Chicago financier and a bondholder in the company, objected to the appointment of Dumaine. "It seems to me," he said, "that Dumaine, as a trustee in bankruptcy, interested himself as a trustee in the corporation."

John L. Hall, counsel for Dumaine, said he questioned Prince's status as a bondholder, asserting that Prince became a bondholder after the company had filed a petition for reorganization.

JEWISH CONGRESS VOTES TO EXTEND ANTI-NAZI BOYCOTT

Calls on All People to Join in Movement—League Aid Sought to Combat Propaganda.

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—The World Jewish Congress voted approval yesterday of a boycott on the products of Nazi Germany.

The resolution, unanimously adopted, was introduced by Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum of New York, chairman of the Committee on Economic Defense and Boycott. It called on Jews and all other people to join and extend the boycott.

Dr. Tenenbaum told the congress it has been successful, particularly in the United States, and that liberal elements in several South American republics have indicated their intention to participate.

Charging that Nazi propaganda is spreading anti-Jewish agitation throughout the world, the congress voted to urge League of Nations intervention. Prepared by a committee under Rabbi Edward Israel of Baltimore, Md., this resolution was presented by Horace M. Kallen of New York.

It proposed establishment of a co-ordinating bureau for a counter-propaganda campaign, creation of a press bureau, legal action against libels, popularization of studies exposing "baseless defamations" and a program of general enlightenment on the Jewish question and Jewish life.

Immigration Resolution. Another resolution appealed to all governments to modify their immigration restrictions in order to give Jewish refugees "an opportunity of starting anew."

Presented by Louis Segal of New York, secretary of the Jewish National Workers Alliance of America, the resolution suggested negotiations with governments, the League of Nations, the International Labor Office and other organizations to remove restrictions on Jewish immigration. It proposed formation of a commission of experts by the Arab neighbors on a basis of mutual

Another resolution, offered by Leon Gellman of New York, president of the Mizrahi Zionist Organization of America, urged the Congress to devise an immediate, concrete plan to aid needy Jews in Poland, Germany, Rumania, Lithuania and elsewhere. It proposed that assistance be sought from non-Jewish social welfare agencies.

Appeal to Great Britain. The congress voted an appeal to Great Britain, as the League of Nations, to uphold its pledges to Jewry in the "Balfour declaration." The resolution affirmed "the determination of the Jewish people to live in peaceful co-operation with their Arab neighbors on a basis of mutual

HOLT INDORSES COUGHLIN'S IDEAS AT CONVENTION

Crowd Stands Up and Applauds Senator at Meeting of Union for Social Justice.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin told delegates at the opening session of the first convention of National Union for Social Justice today: "We will not participate in any social revolution which would reduce such good people who are represented here to tincups or beggary. America has not failed nor has the Constitution, but it is sad to remark that sometimes Americans fail to preserve the Constitution."

As Father Coughlin appeared at the speakers' platform he was greeted with a 15-minute demonstration. A moment later when Congressman Martin L. Sweeney (Dem., Ohio, temporary chairman, recited a "history of prosperity," boos greeted the name of former President Herbert Hoover.

A few boos were heard when Sweeney mentioned Senator Joe T. Robinson, and louder boos came from the convention floor when he referred to Senator Carter Glass as a "reactionary."

15-Minute Demonstration. Immediately after the opening the delegates, with right arms extended, recited the pledge of allegiance to the principles of social justice.

Mgr. John R. Kenny, pastor of the Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church of Cleveland, delivered the invocation, concluding with the Lord's prayer.

Chairman Sweeney then read the Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church of Cleveland, delivered the invocation, concluding with the Lord's prayer. "Utilities Director Frank O. Walene greeted the convention on behalf of Mayor Harold L. Burton, excused by Father Coughlin so that he could meet President Roosevelt who spent four hours in Cleveland today.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its editorial principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of the people, never oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory government.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Independent Unions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE editorial, "Labor at the Rubicon," was true, except it overlooked the independent unions.

In the last 10 years, the Federation of Labor has built up an oligarchy in the form of central bodies in every city and these are dominated by reactionary, swivel-chair artists, interested only in per capita tax payments to continue them in office. The result has been many withdrawals from the A. F. of L.

These independents are more powerful than supposed and, by virtue of exclusion from the A. F. of L., are more progressive and militant. Don't forget that the engine service railroad brotherhoods are not affiliated with the A. F. of L.

The Progressive Miners, with 35,000 in Illinois, are an independent union. We warehouse men are independent. In the East, there are hundreds of independent unions in the textile and shoe industries. On all coasts there are independent unions of dock workers and longshoremen. The strongest union in Minnesota is independent.

Green could replenish his ranks with these if he had not permitted the labor movement, as represented by the A. F. of L., central bodies, to get into the rut of reaction and bossism.

Last week when I was in Washington, where I was summoned to discuss the organization of food industry workers in St. Louis on an industrial basis, I talked with a disinterested government official, who warned of this danger: "Two armies fighting each other are one big army committing suicide." I think the point is well taken. There is a grave danger that the Lewis-Grain fight may wreck the whole labor movement, and wouldn't that make the big corporation interests mad?

OSCAR T. WILLES,
Secretary, Warehouse Union No. 667.

Father Coughlin.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE all the respect in the world for the Catholic religion, but for the life of me I can't understand why the good Catholic people of this country and their religious superiors don't make some sort of protest against Father Coughlin.

It's a well-known fact that we have plenty, in fact too many politicians, without having a priest turn out to be a regular mud-slinger. Now we also note that Father Coughlin is turning gambler: He has offered to wager a large sum of money that Lemke polls more votes than Landon in Rhode Island. It is unbelievable that his superiors approve of all his actions.

DOHOKINDATA.

Unsung Heroes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR article entitled, "Guiding Hand of Muna Opera Cast," briefly outlines the career and character of an individual who has long held an important post in the American theater. But the article is more than a mere sketch of Zeke Colvan, in that it reveals an interesting bit of information concerning the unsung hero of the Municipal Opera in St. Louis.

But what about the many others who seldom rate more than a name and occupation shown in an obscure part of the program? Despite the fact that their positions are humble, there are many unsung heroes whose services are indispensable to the smoothly functioning machinery necessary in order to preserve that tradition of the stage, "the show must go on." And, indeed, in the Municipal Opera the show does go on!

We would like also to hear of those who design, construct and assemble the cumbersome yet vital technical scenic background; of the staff that makes and fits the costumes; of those whose duty it is to seat and look after the physical comfort of the patrons; of the electricians; of the "sound" men; of the musicians, all of whom singly and collectively are most indispensable parts of the necessary machinery of production and presentation.

Your reporter could go beyond the Municipal Opera, too. In every business or industrial organization, there is much "behind-the-scenes" activity and there are many unsung heroes about whom much interesting comment can be conveyed to your readers.

HENRY J. BAUER.

The City Hall War Memorial.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AS I walked through the lobby of the City Hall recently, my attention was attracted by a shrine erected in honor of St. Louisans who died while in the army at the time of the World War.

I could almost see the look of amazement on the faces of the dead as they contemplated this "key" which is part of the memorial:

"Act. Died from accident.
"D. D. Died from disease.
"D. G. Died from gas.
"D. S. Died from shell shock.
"K. A. Killed in action.
"D. W. Died from wounds.
"R. G. Result of gas.
"R. S. Result of shell shock.
"R. W. Result of wounds."

What a sacrifice! What purpose is served by such a display of names? One cannot help but wonder why the perpetrators failed to include the number of hours the deceased suffered as they were released by death.

In my opinion, a most fitting inscription would be: "Sent to their death by the masters of America."

GILBERT GETZ.

TO THE GRAND JURY.

If it adheres to the program laid before it by Circuit Attorney Miller, the grand jury will adjourn tomorrow, ending its investigation of the wholesale registration frauds exposed by the Post-Dispatch before the primary and shockingly confirmed by a canvass ordered by the Board of Election Commissioners.

When the grand jury meets again Sept. 1, it will be compelled to confine itself to routine matters. It will not resume the fraud investigation. The next grand jury will not sit until Sept. 14.

Precious time will thus be wasted. The perpetrators of the fraud will get a breathing spell and they will make every effort to employ it to their own advantage. A general registration takes place next month and the general election comes in November. It is of paramount public importance that the scandal be sifted to the bottom at the earliest possible moment.

These are the men forming the grand jury:

John J. Griffin.	Arthur A. Hunn.
Lawrence M. Rafferty.	James F. Rink.
Maurice Weil.	John R. Harkins.
Chester A. Kennedy.	Thomas J. Brady.
James C. Espy.	Eben M. Hoffman.
Carl Essig.

Their work to date, frankly, has been disappointing. They have returned 28 indictments, mostly of small fry election officials. All but six of these indictments are on misdemeanor charges. In six cases—and here, it is reported, the grand jury went outside the rigid program presented to it by the Circuit Attorney—felony charges were made.

It is, of course, customary for the grand jury to follow the leadership of the Circuit Attorney and his assistants. In this instance, however, it is regrettable that the grand jury has not taken matters entirely into its own hands.

The Circuit Attorney's attitude from the beginning of the fraud exposure has not been such as to inspire public confidence. He did not bring to the subject the vigor and zeal which the public was entitled to expect. And last Monday, in the midst of the grand jury's probe, he left town for a three weeks' vacation, turning over to an assistant the task of unraveling the worst local election scandal of a generation.

The plan of the grand jury, as originated by the Circuit Attorney, is to investigate one precinct a day. There are 669 precincts in St. Louis, each manned by six election officials, or a total of 4014. Many of these are suspect. At the present rate of progress, many months would be required to complete the inquiry.

We submit that the Circuit Attorney's plan not only gives rise to intolerable delay, but is inefficient.

The small fry who are being indicted did not enter the picture obviously as a huge conspiracy to pad the registration lists. We say obviously, because the evidence is clear that it was a concerted, well-organized effort. The small fry took the orders.

What the public wants to know is who gave them. Who are the higher-ups?

If the grand jury should grant immunity to some of the small fry, it could find out who worked the wires. It could thread its way from the election clerks who made the scandalous canvass of June 18, through the precinct captains, to the top men.

These top men are the dangerous ones. If they get away without being exposed, the threat of dishonest registrations and elections continues to hang over the city.

The grand jury is not a creature of the Circuit Attorney. It is a free agent. It is the master of its own destiny. It has broad powers of inquiry. It can order the Circuit Attorney or his assistants from the room and do its own investigating. It can go into the vacation tomorrow or it can continue to sit until the expiration of its term.

We trust it will decide to continue. We trust, moreover, it will thrust aside the methods handed to it by the Circuit Attorney and attack the scandal with the objective of getting the higher-ups, the main conspirators—or, to use the argot of the underworld—the big shots.

If it does so, the gentlemen of the grand jury will write their names in rubric letters in the city's history.

MORE BAD NEWS FOR THE CRIMINAL.

It is often truly remarked that although reform in criminal procedure is necessary, the basic trouble with criminal law administration lies in the inadequately trained and equipped personnel of our agencies charged with enforcing the law. The recent five-day course for prosecuting attorneys conducted at Northwestern University was a notable step toward the correction of this deficiency.

Federal and state attorneys in attendance received instruction in various methods of scientific crime detection and in the nature of their legal status and application. Thanks to the facilities of the university's Scientific Crime Detection Laboratory, the law enforcing officers were able in a short time to enlarge their knowledge regarding fingerprinting, bombing and explosions, comparative micrography, dubious documents, photography, detection of deception, firearms identification and related subjects. Powers and duties of prosecuting attorneys were also studied.

Society is entitled to criminal prosecutors every bit as well prepared as the criminal defenders. Schools of instruction such as that at Northwestern University ought to be held in every large community at regular intervals.

"OLYMPIAD" IS ANOTHER.

Yesterday we took the Republicans to task, kindly but firmly, about their misuse of the word flout for flout. Today's lesson will not be restricted to Republicans. Today we're pointing the pedagogical finger at everybody—Democrats, Republicans, Socialists, Communists, Townsends, Lemkites, Coughlins, the share-the-wealth fringe, New Dealers, Old Dealers, Tories, phantoms and Jim Reed's Constitutionals.

For a year we have been hearing about the Olympiad to be held in Berlin, just as four years ago we were told of the colossal preparations Los Angeles was making for the Olympiad, and in 1940 we shall probably be reading Olympiad yarns from Tokio.

"Wrong, all wrong," as John Randolph moaned over the John Marshall decision. Unlike the Roanoke Jeremiah who lamented that no man could show the error of the Chief Justice's reasoning, we can, and will, transfix this solocism.

What is an Olympiad? To the dictionary, slanders. "A period of four (or, in the inclusive reckoning of the Greeks, five) years from one Olympian festival to another." . . . Erroneously the Olympian or Olympic games.

Through Olympiad after Olympiad the Chicago Tribune's famous B. L. T. strove manfully for the correct use of this word. In vain. The late col-umnist's cajoleries, exegetics, pleadings and appeals were "flouted" by the Republicans and flouted by the rest of us, and hence these tears.

ANSWERING MR. RANSOM.

William L. Ransom of New York, president of the American Bar Association, says he does "not see how State powers are nullified" by the 5-to-4 decision of the United States Supreme Court in the New York minimum wage case. We quote from the text of an address before the Albany Law School, as printed in the American Bar Association Journal:

The Court of Appeals of New York gave its construction and interpretation of the statute enacted by the Legislature of the State of New York and held that the State statute as so interpreted by it went beyond the limits of what the State government could do in abridging the rights and freedom of adult women. The Supreme Court of the United States was bound by the State court's interpretation of the State statute, and agreed with the State court that the statute as so construed was contrary to constitutional right.

As the net effect of this reasoning is to argue against a rehearing for this important case, it needs to be answered. The several steps to the answer are simple and easy to follow.

First, the New York court, in a 4-to-3 decision, said in effect that it had no choice in the matter—that the Supreme Court decision in the District of Columbia case of 1933 controlled.

But, second, the Supreme Court accepted the decision of the New York court as if the latter court had decided the case on its merits, or, to put it another way, as if the New York court had come to its conclusion independently of the Supreme Court's earlier action in the District of Columbia case.

Third, with each court placing the responsibility for the decision on the other, we have judicial review that falls short of providing that which we have a right to expect.

Fourth, there is the belief of Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo that rejection of the New York law is not required by the adverse decision in the District of Columbia case; that there is an essential difference between them.

Finally, it does not follow, as Mr. Ransom says, that the United States Supreme Court is bound by a state court's interpretation of a state statute. State laws which have been upheld by state courts have been found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court and state laws rejected by state courts have been sustained on appeal to the Supreme Court.

DISQUALIFIED FOR MEMBERSHIP.

Among the members of Mayor Dickmann's committee appointed to draft a permanent registration bill are James A. Waechter, Charles L. Moore, Stephen M. Wagner and Joseph W. Hannauer, who comprise the Board of Election Commissioners.

In ordinary circumstances, it would be entirely logical for the members of the board, charged by law with administering registrations and elections, to sit on such a committee.

This case is different. St. Louis might today be operating under permanent registration if it had not been for the active opposition of the present Board of Election Commissioners to a permanent registration bill that was considered by the 1935 Legislature. Two of the board's members—Waechter and Moore—appeared before the Legislature in opposition to the bill.

Those who knifed a previous attempt to obtain this reform can hardly be expected to bring any zest to the drafting of a new bill.

But above and beyond this consideration, the men in question have demonstrated their unfitness for office. They are under fire. On the Governor's desk, unfinished business, is a request for their removal. They should not be asked to sit on a committee whose duty it is to serve public interest.

A PREACHING MORATORIUM?

A touch of indignation was the explanation in many minds, we suspect, for the two-year moratorium on all preaching in Christian churches proposed by the Rev. Dr. Frederick S. Fleming, rector of New York's Trinity Church. The motion has, however, been seconded by the Rev. Dr. Guthrie of St. Mark's-on-the-Bowery, who says the average sermon is "wishy-washy," and believes that "the foremost thinkers of the church have been of the same opinion privately for years." They can't all have been grappling with a late rabbit.

But if it were possible to make a studious and comprehensive comparison between the preaching of today and yesterday, what, one wonders, would the verdict be? Can a diminishing church attendance be charged solely, or largely, to the quality of the preaching? Like St. Louis, every other city has had accomplished preachers who often cast their pearls before empty pews.

In a simpler era, when the church enjoyed, so to speak, a Sunday monopoly, and the competition of the radio, motor car and sports was unknown, the eloquent preacher enjoyed a popularity and commanded a following impossible in the present order.

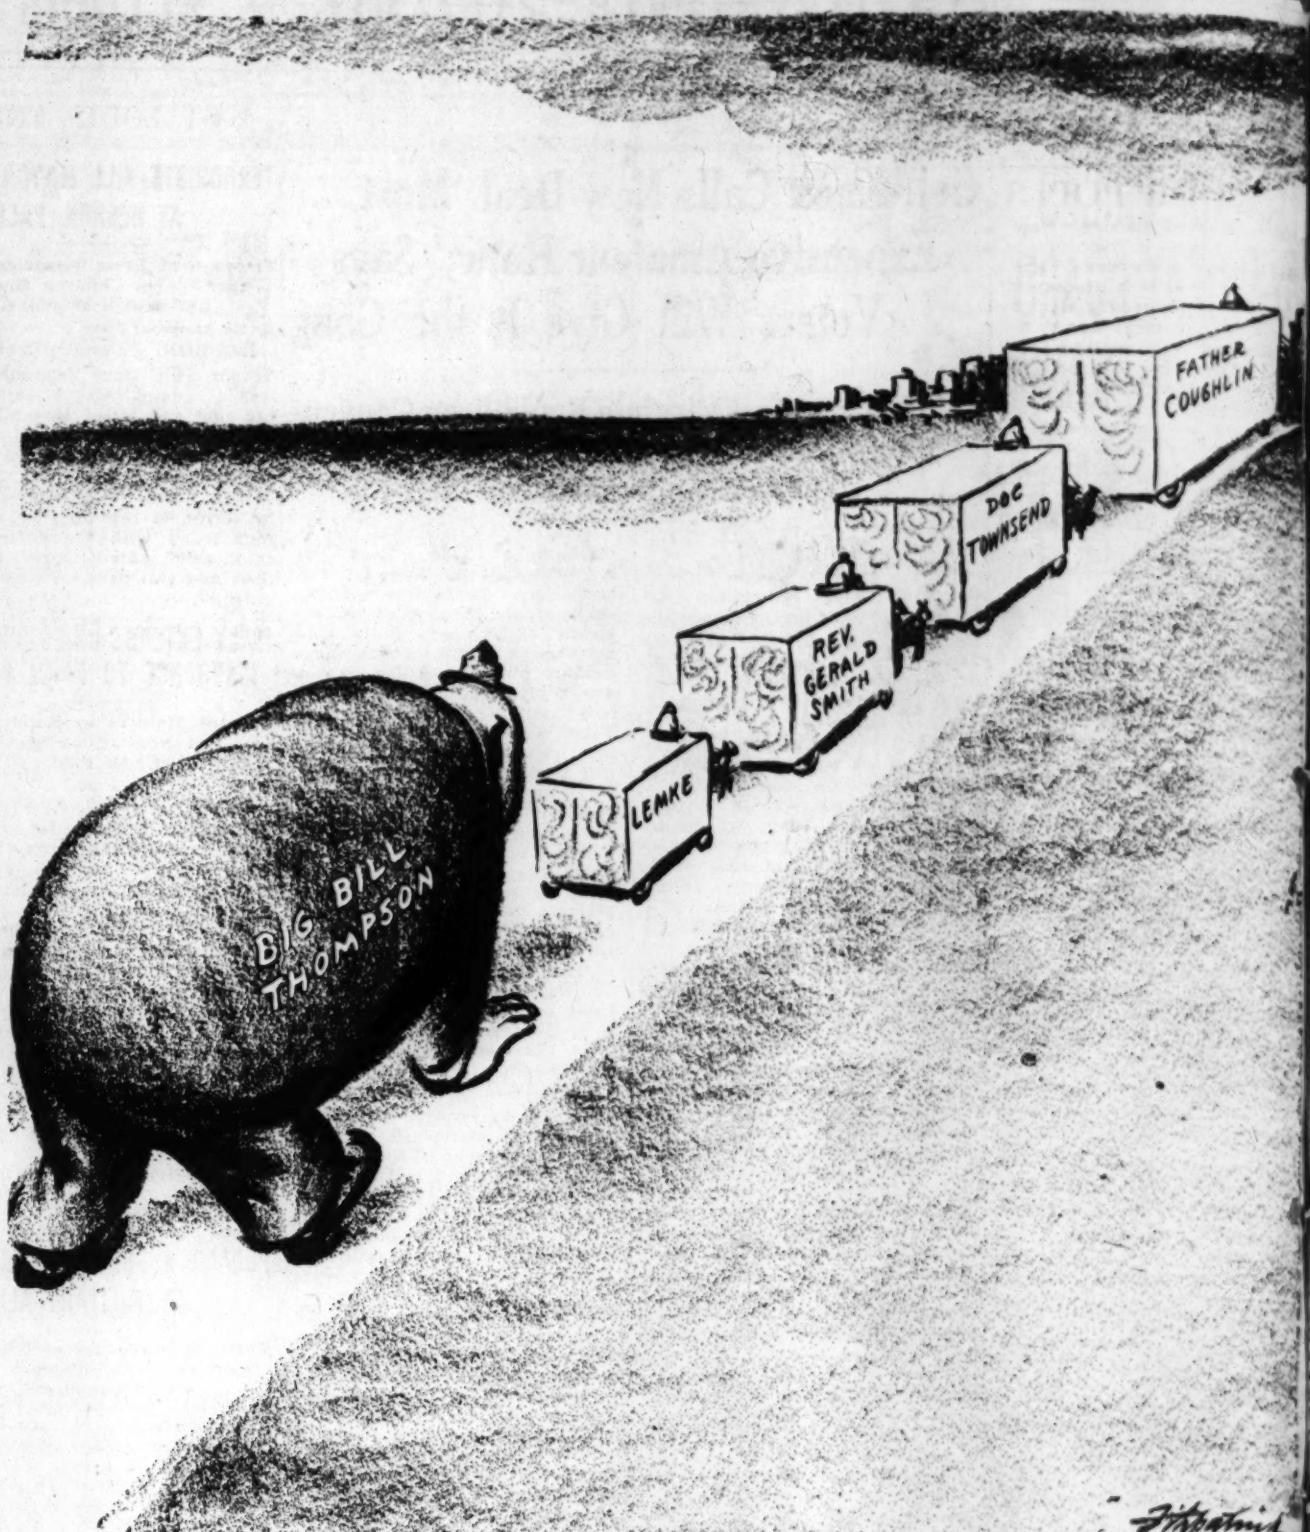

Isn't it the whirling, flamboyant cosmos, not the preaching, that has posed the problem of the church? If it is, would not the suggested moratorium be more likely to prove a coffin nail than a cure?

WPA CLEANS UP THE RIVERFRONT.

Government expenditures for work relief would get smaller criticism if they could all be made to show as socially desirable a result as that apparent in the rehabilitation of the Mississippi River shore line in St. Louis, nearing completion under WPA auspices. The cost of the improvement to date has been $295,000, less than half the amount allocated for the work, and the job is 75 per cent completed. The money has been paid out very largely in wages.

The task of cleaning up the 13 miles of riverfront from the Chain of Rocks to Carondelet is not in the same class with the leaf-raking brand of made work which put the term boondoggling into common speech. Debris of many years, thoughtlessly dumped on the river bank or left there by high waters, was cleared away, overhanging bluffs were trimmed and shaped, low places with noxious pools of stagnant water were filled, and revetments to stop the eroding action of the current were built.

St. Louisans generally should renew their acquaintance with the riverfront. The historic bank of the Mississippi is more inviting than it has been in many years.

THE CIRCUS GOES TO CLEVELAND.

Arbitration: A Short-Cut to Justice

Resort to arbitration instead of courts is growing, writer says, describing work of New York organization that sponsors this method; claims are laid before impartial umpire after both sides agree to accept his decision; by this plan, law's delays are eliminated, claimants get speedy settlement and taxpayers save money.

Felix Warburg in the New Republic.

IF one of these days you are handed a summons—and it happens to the best of men—you'll suffer an instant of acute terror and then you'll wonder what you're going to do about it. Not every layman is aware of it, but there is one thing you can do, once a legal battle is inevitable.

Instead of worrying along through the frustration, delay and expense of going to court, you can, if your opponent is willing, arbitrate—thus saving months, perhaps years, of apprehension over the outcome, greatly reducing or even eliminating the expense of legal counsel, and saving your local taxpayers a minimum of $50 for every day your case would have been before a jury.

Suppose you become embroiled in a dispute that seems headed for the courts. You and your opponent decide to arbitrate. You write to the American Arbitration Association headquarters at 521 Fifth avenue, New York City, and steps to complete the arbitration are taken at once. The hearing may take place at the headquarters of some local organization, perhaps a chamber of commerce.

From the local panel, some arbitrator satisfactory to both sides is selected. In an important case, three arbitrators may serve; each side chooses one, the two selected choose a third, or the association may appoint all three. If technical matters are involved, a man with the special knowledge required is chosen. You can have an attorney if you want one, and if you duly notify your opponent of your intention, but it isn't essential. Then the hearing is arranged and the matter is settled in an informal, businesslike fashion within a few weeks after the dispute first arose.

This short cut to justice was largely made possible by a group of leading New York business men who, in 1926, merged existing arbitration groups into the American Arbitration Association, and set out to establish a sound basis for the practice of arbitration. Arbitration had often been attempted before, but there was no standardized procedure or nationwide machinery available. Many arbitrations had failed because the local laws were inadequate to enforce them.

These business men of 1926 revitalized the laws which provided that when men agree in writing to arbitrate, the courts are closed to them until they fulfill this obligation; and that when an award is made, the courts will enforce it. In nearly all states, some such laws are in effect.

Today, the association embraces a system of arbitration that reaches every corner of the United States and functions in nearly every industry. There are facilities in 1600 cities, and there are 7000 members of the official panel of arbitrators. The association's arbitrators have been called upon to decide everything from the quality of ivory nuts to whether an actress' baby was an "act of God"; everything, in fact, that causes contending parties to clash in civil suits.

Arbitration is benefiting the public in a thousand ways it never suspects. An association of all the grain dealers has for years effected, through arbitration, savings that have indirectly resulted in lower prices for grain products. The building industry generally refers disputes to arbitration, thus reducing costs and ultimately helping the home builder. The same is true of manufacturers of textiles, with resultant savings on clothing prices. Even furs are less expensive because the New York trade has a very efficient system of arbitration.

No claim is too large or too small for arbitration. Members of the New York Stock Exchange arbitrate claims that run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. A large engineering and dyeing firm uses arbitration, settling claims often involving only a few dollars.

What might be accomplished by applying arbitration on a large scale was illustrated recently in New York City, when 2500 cases pending in the lower courts, which were already two to four years behind, were transferred by the litigants to the American Arbitration Association.

The net result achieved is threefold: aid to the overtaxed courts, immediate relief for injured claimants, and, since every case removed from the jury calendar is arbitrated at no cost to the city or state, a saving to taxpayers.

Because the association has steadily sponsored a policy of providing for arbitration before the dispute arises, the inclusion of the "arbitration clause" is becoming general in the drawing of contracts. This clause provides that any future disagreement arising out of the contract must, if either party desires it, be arbitrated. In all but industrially important states, however, both parties must agree to arbitrate if litigation is to be avoided.

Under A. A. A. procedure, each party knows exact cost of a dispute. On claims under $500, the fee is $5; under $1000, $10; it averages 1 per cent of the amount involved. These payments go, not to the arbitrators, but to help support the association, which is a non-profit organization.

The panel of 7000 arbitrators is about as tamper-proof a group of men as it is possible to assemble. Headed by Owen D. Young, Herbert Hoover, Charles M. Schwab, Thomas J. Watson, Daniel Willard and Lucius R. Eastman, it extends down to business and professional leaders in local communities. Serving without compensation, their sole interest is in furthering the arbitration principle.

The arbitration movement has made an impressive record in 10 years. It has cleared a straight, inexpensive route to civil justice for those who want to use it. It has taken a long stride toward restoring good will between parties who find it necessary to settle their difficulties legally.

AN UNUSUAL WORD.

IN his contribution to the new Morris book, Mr. Shaw speaks of the Fabian but not-hatted Mr. Hyndman as "altogether an assuming man, quite naturally and unconsciously." The word is well chosen, but how seldom it is that we find "assuming" used as the opposite to "unassuming." But "uns" may be uncouth, but who ever was "couth"? Who ever heard of a "ruly" instead of an unruly temper? We all know Charles II's deathbed apology, but what would be a "conscienceable" time for one to take in dying? And what is the opposite to "unspeakable"?

Another Lesson on Registration

From the Kansas City Star.

FOR such registration frauds as those uncovered in St. Louis there is a remedy that has been advocated for some time in recent years and now more than being urged by leaders who are concerned in the maintenance of an honest ballot in that city. The people of Kansas City are familiar with permanent registration—a desirable proposal. They know nothing of it in practice, except in numerous other cities and areas of the country.

But a carefully devised system of permanent registration—with provision for the usual and repeated checking of lists, identification of voters at the polls and other protective features—would be an effective weapon against fraud in St. Louis, Kansas City or other communities of the State. At the same time, it would be a convenience to the voters and would save a considerable part of the present registration expense.

Repeatedly this reform has been sponsored for Kansas City, but just as often the Missouri Legislature has failed to take the necessary action. Now the need is strongly revealed in Missouri's other large center of population. That should bring increased demands for the needed legislation. It is no longer an affair of the one community in this State. In fact, it should be a matter of genuine concern to the people throughout Missouri.

WHEAT SUPPLY LARGE ENOUGH, AGRICULTURE BUREAU REPORTS

Predicts Continued Higher Prices Unless 1937 Crop Is Average or Better.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Total wheat supplies in the United States were said today by the Agriculture Department to be "large enough for the usual domestic requirements."

In its 20th annual outlook report, the department said that shortages in red spring and durum wheat would require continued imports of these types. The shortages were attributed to the drought. Mills using spring wheat for the 1936-37 season may use a larger percentage of hard winter and Pacific North west wheat than last year, the report said.

Wheat prices in this country will continue to average higher than world prices at Liverpool, it was estimated.

"A return of average or greater than average yield in the United States," the report continued, "would result in an export surplus and prices would adjust towards an export basis."

The wheat crop estimate of 632,745,000 bushels as of Aug. 1, the survey said, is below domestic utilization of the past two years for feed, seed and food, but above the five-year average of 1928-27. Carry-over stocks of wheat July 1 were reported at 150,000,000 bushels, indicating total wheat supplies of 783,000,000 bushels.

The new signs, which will have yellow letters on a black background, will give the name of the street and the location west, north or south. For instance, signs on Grand boulevard will carry the notation, "2600 west." Several street markers of this type have been tried for several months.

Col. Knox Calls New Deal 'Expensive Amateur Hour'

has said that the people have short memories. But the American people do remember the promises made to them in 1932. They were promised an orderly and economical government. For a time they were led astray by the Pied Pipers of economic experiment. In their distress they approved economic quackery. For a time they were dazzled by the pinwheels and the rockets of New Deal fireworks.

"Hypocritical or Ignorant." But they were not fooled permanently. They know now the economic truths that put to shame the extravagances of the present administration. The past three years have given the American people an invaluable demonstration of elementary economic principles. These truths may be harsh but they are valuable. The lesson may be expensive, but it is worth the cost. One of the truths is that a world depression cannot be cured by economic tricks. Depressions grow out of morbid and diseased conditions in our economic system. The world depression of our time was not caused by the mistakes of business men or financiers or farmers. It was caused by the dislocations of war, followed by unnatural conditions in trade and currencies. Such a situation cures itself by wiping out the diseased conditions. A political administration that pretends to be able to end a world depression by economic sleight-of-hand is a hypocritical administration or an ignorant administration, and America does not want either kind.

The reckless experiments have ended in failure and disaster. The wreckage is all about us. There remains only to clean up the wreckage and pay the bill. It is a large bill. It was a long spree and there was lots of breakage. And our American people are now aware of the size of that bill. They want to make it as small as possible. They do not want to see it increased. And that is the reason they want a change of administration. As the experiments of 1933 failed, the present administration became frenzied and hysterical. It adopted the fatal policy of pouring good money after bad. Its policy finally degenerated into a general program of squandering its way out of its difficulties.

Let's look briefly at some of the aspects of this bill, incurred in the past three years, which the people must pay. There is, first of all, the Federal debt. When the present administration took office in March, 1933, the Federal debt was 21 billion dollars. Today it is more than 34 billion dollars. Three years of Federal activity have added 13 billion dollars to the burden of Federal debt. That is $110 for every man, woman and child in the country. That new load has been added to a debt of $180 already outstanding. A baby born today will start life with a debt of $280 on his shoulders.

Increase in Taxation. If this stupendous increase in the burden of debt had been forced by the failure of Government revenues, it would have been excusable. If the depression had reduced Government revenues from taxation to the vanishing point, it would have been necessary to face deficits to meet the costs of relief and the ordinary expenses of government. But there is no such excuse. This weight of debt has come from waste and extravagance and costly experimentation above and beyond a cruel pressure of taxation. Last year the receipts from Federal taxation were just under four billion dollars, nearly a half billion more than they were in the abnormally prosperous year of 1929. While the national income has been falling to the lowest levels known for a generation, the taxation of the people by the National Government has been steadily increasing. The debt load of the people has been increasing while they paid current taxes higher than they have ever borne except in time of war.

Figures are dull things, but the story of a nation's downfall can sometimes be told in figures. In 1929, in the midst of an unparalleled prosperity, the nation's income was 80 billions of dollars. In that year of plenty the cost of government in America, Federal and local, was 12 billion dollars. Last year the national income was about 53 billion dollars, and the cost of government in the United States was more than 15 billions. In the space of six years the cost of government in this country has grown from one-seventh to more than one-fourth of the nation's income.

This primrose path of governmental squandering leads only to disaster. The steady progress of natural recovery is hampered by the burden of taxes and shadowed by the fear of inflation. The road of history is strewn with the wrecks of nations engulfed by waste of the people's money. The Roman Republic collapsed under the weight of taxes. The French Revolution was set alight by the rebellion of an over-taxed people. The American Revolution was the result of long-smoldering resentment of unjust taxation.

Higher Living Costs. The money wages of the American worker have risen since 1932, from the progress of natural recovery. But as his money wages have risen, so has the cost of living. The price of the city worker's food has risen 20 per cent under the New Deal. The cost of his clothing has been increased 13 per cent. And the American worker faces today the possibility of that ruinous rise in the cost of living which comes from inflation of currency and credit. It is a law of our social order that a bureaucracy grows by what it feeds upon. Once a government starts on a career of waste it finds itself unable to stop. A government once embarked on a policy of subsidies and gifts must maintain itself by further subsidies. For a people faced with this situation there is only one answer, and that is to install another government.

The American people must pay for this orgy of extravagance. There has been much talk about soaking the rich. To the plain man, working hard for a limited wage, soaking the rich seems an easy arrangement for meeting the cost of government. In practice it does not work out that way. There are laws of economics and mathematics working here, and these laws operate to limit the soaking of the rich. Beyond these limits, taxing the rich destroys wealth and capital, reducing investment, reducing production, and reducing wages. No administration before the present administration has so paraded its love for the plain people, especially around election time. But the figures on taxation do not confirm this affection. In the year 1930, under the Republican administration, income taxes and corporation taxes, which come generally from the well-to-do totaled two and a half billion dollars, while the taxes on consumers, the hidden taxes paid by the wages of the people, were less than one and one-half billions. In the year 1935, under the present administration, the income and corporation taxes had fallen to less than one and one-half billions, while the taxes on consumers had doubled to two and one-half billions. The share of the burden of taxes borne by the mass of the people has risen under the New Deal from 30 per cent to 60 per cent. My authority for this statement is the President of the United States.

Limit to Corporation Taxes. To many people it seems a just and feasible arrangement to pay the expense of Government from taxation of rich and powerful corporations. Here again there are limits set by forces beyond the control of Government. When corporations are taxed beyond reasonable limits the burden falls, not upon the stockholders, but upon the general public. Confiscatory taxes on corporations result in the destruction of assets, and this means higher costs for goods and lower wages for the workers. Last year in New England the largest cotton mill in the world closed down for good. Seven thousand workers were thrown out of work. There were various causes of this unhappy affair, but taxation was a major element. In our American society there

WHEAT MARKET IS WEAKER THAN

CORN IN D

September 1.075 1/2 to 1.080 1/2. December, 99¢ to 1.000 1/2. Corn futures were down 1/2¢ to 1.070 1/2. Corn meal was down 1¢ to 22¢. Corn belt rains and forecasts of dominated cereal markets were largely responsible for material drop in prices.

More than a cent a bushel setback for corn values was brought about by a future relief for corn was chiefly over the outlook for the winter and spring in particular. Predictions of cooler temperatures for various corn belt states also a beach in influence.

Wheat futures in Liverpool and Winnipeg quotations failed to maintain earlier gains. The Liverpool wheat market of quotations served to remove the upward bias in the market for the bulls. Liverpool wheat, after rising 1/2¢ to 1.070 1/2, was down 1/2¢ to 1.065 1/2, closed at but 1/2¢ of a cent higher than the previous day's close. It was less perturbed by fears of a vest in Canada, offset later by dearer export business and by increased acreage in the United States. The price of both its corn and wheat was small part to times in previous seasons that it was not so low. It was feared that this circumstance accounted for early slow action of the markets, but the steady rise in prices of the provisions were responsive to hog and cattle markets.

Wheat futures purchase yesterday for 35,000 bushels, corn 16,936,000. The price of wheat was $1.31,000 bushel and in corn $2.37,000 bushel.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE.
Aug. 14.—September wheat was down on the market, but the price of the Winnipeg wheat opened unchanged to higher and early was 4 1/2¢ lower. Corn, 4 1/2¢ to 4 3/4¢. Hogs, 10 1/2¢ to 11 1/2¢. Liverpool wheat advanced 1/4¢ and and subsequent cable was 10¢ higher. The close was 44½¢ net but 45¢ delivered.

In the cash grain market today wheat was 10¢ to 1¢ lower; corn 1¢ higher; and soybeans 1¢ to 1½¢ higher.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

1,200 No. 1 red winter wheat, $1.12; 1,200 No. 2 red winter wheat, $1.14; 1,200 No. 3 red winter wheat, $1.18; 1,200 mixed wheat, $1.16.

Market Hits An "Air Pocket" Late in Session and Declines for Losses of Fractions to 2 or More Points.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The stock market dove late today when it hit an air-pocket and closed with losses of fractions to two or more points.

Prices crumbled suddenly toward the start of the last hour, and for a while offerings, accelerated and threw the ticker tape behind. The close was heavy. Transactions totaled 1,100,000 shares.

Analysts were unable to assign a cause for the sudden general vacuum on the bid side of the market.

Brokers explained losses of a point or so in General Motors and Chrysler in terms of the sharp drop in automobile production. Cram's estimated output for the week down to 56,779 units from 81,704 the week before and compared with 96,886 in the like week of last year. The slower production reflected preparations for the industry's change-over to new models.

Some steels, such as Vanadium and Bethlehem, lost earlier steadiness and compared with 96,886 in the like week of last year. The slower production reflected preparations for the industry's change-over to new models.

There was selling in International Harvester, Deere and Case. The last named slumped sharply.

Union Pacific Off Five.

The marked shrinkage in profits of Union Pacific touched off liquidation which knocked the shares down 5 points or so. Other carriers fractions to around 2 points down included Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Southern Railway.

Columbian Carbon was a soft spot, with a loss of about 4 points, and Westinghouse lacked stamina, yielding 3 points or so.

Down fractions to about 2 points were Sears-Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Schenley, American Telephone, Anaconda, American Can, General Electric, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville and a Loew's.

Wheat finished 1 1/2 to 2 cents lower. Corn was 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents off. Cotton declined. Foreign exchanges were mixed.

The pound sterling at mid-afternoon was off 1-16 of a cent at 50.25. The French franc gained .002 of a cent to 6.55 cents.

Cotton ended 90c to $1.05 a bale lower.

Other shares which slumped included National Dairy, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Electric Power & Light, Lorillard, Delaware & Hudson, Warner Bros., Baltimore and Ohio and American Locomotive.

News of the Day.

The rails were under the shadow of a contra-seasonal decline in freight car loadings. The week ended last Saturday the total, reported by the Association of American Railroads, was 728,293 cars, a drop of 28 per cent from the preceding week, but the gain of 231 per cent over the like week of last year.

Rail men attributed the pace of the drop from the previous week to the sharp contraction of coal shipments and miscellaneous freight and grain and grain products.

Chart analysts pointed out that for the past several days the rails have had to face counter-currents of profit-taking and this, they held, has revived the question of whether the market has run ahead of business improvement.

Excess Reserves Up $100,000,000.

The rise of $100,000,000 in excess reserves of Federal Reserve member banks for the week ended Wednesday was somewhat larger than had been expected by some banking circles said.

GRANITE CITY WPA WORKER, WHO SHOT HIMSELF, DIES

Had Been Despondent Because of Failure to Get Job in Private Industry.

Francis M. Smith, 62-year-old WPA worker, died last night at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head. He had been despondent because of his failure to find employment in private industry, relatives said.

Smith shot himself Tuesday night while in the kitchen of his home, 2673 Washington avenue, Granite City. He had just entered the house and had been greeted by his 6-year-old daughter, Betty Jean, who asked him to give her a dime. He kissed her, gave her 25 cents, and said, "It's the last you'll ever get from me."

Accidental Shot Fatal to Child.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 13.—Anna Fifer, 8 years old, accidentally shot by Martin Dupont, 9, Tuesday night while they were playing cowboy, died last night. An emergency operation failed to save the child's life.

Referee in Bankruptcy John A. Hope yesterday recommended to Federal Court dismissal of the debtor proceedings of Mrs. Agnes C. Lemp, which she had filed in October, 1934, to retain possession of her estate, Alsweil Farm, on Gravois road near Fenton, St. Louis County, consisting of 192 acres of land, a home and improvements.

It was recommended also that the restraining order granted by Federal Court, preventing foreclosure of her property under a $30,000 deed of trust, be dissolved. The action was taken, it was stated, because Mrs. Lemp had failed to comply with terms of an agreement for an extension of time in which to pay her debts, which she obtained a year ago after hearings in Bankruptcy Court.

In her original petition, she stated that her estate was worth $350,000, and was encumbered only by the deed of trust, held by the Board of Finance of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and taxes. In April, 1935, she obtained an extension of three years to pay the debt, and under the terms of the agreement, principal payments of $5000 were due May 1 of this year and on each November and May 1 until the principal had been retired.

The extension agreement also provided for the payment of interest and taxes over regular periods, and an interest payment of $900 fell due with the principal payment May 1. When these payments were not made, the church board filed a petition asking that the proceedings be dismissed because of the default.

Plea by Her Husband.

At the hearing on the petition, William J. Lemp, husband of the debtor and grandson of the founder of the old Lemp brewery, requested a further extension of time for his wife. He testified that he expected to obtain money from his mother, which he would use in meeting the payments on his wife's estate. He said his mother had an interest in some property in the downtown Riverfront Memorial district, and it was expected that the memorial would be built and that she would receive money from the condemnation of the property.

In his recommendation to the court, Referee Hope stated he did not think it fair to the church board to enjoin them from foreclosure any longer on such an "indefinite promise."

REFeree'S FINDING AGAINST MRS. LEMP

Recommends Debtor Order Preventing Foreclosure of Estate Be Dismissed.

CONTEMPT PETITION AGAINST MARISSA COAL MINE OWNER

J. A. Hamilton Must Show Cause Why He Should Not Be Cited Under Court Tax Order.

J. A. Hamilton, owner of the Okay Coal Mine at Marissa, Ill., was ordered today by Judge Joseph E. Fleming of the County Court of St. Clair County to appear before him on Sept. 1 and show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court for alleged violation of a court order.

A petition for the contempt citation had been filed by State's Attorney L. P. Zerweck. The petition points out that last March 16 the court appointed County Treasurer R. S. Wangelin as receiver for the coal mine to collect all of the income of the mine until $3870 in delinquent taxes had been received.

It is alleged that Hamilton recently received a judgment for $150 against the Wallace Coal Co. of St. Louis, agent for the mine, and that this was not turned over to Wangelin. Hamilton could not be reached for a statement.

Exciting situations always produce some lady who adds finishing touch—like the hat with a red parasol at a convention, and the innumerable small fry Jeanne d'Arc who "the front page" in big strikes. The Spanish rebellion has developed, on the side of the Government, a lady Captain while.

Her real name, Dolores Ibarruri, would satisfy Hollywood, a heroine name, but it is not enough for Spain; she is called Passionaria by Spaniards who love and obey her.

"Amazing woman, indefatigable she runs from the field of battle to the studio, to broadcast and sue the Government, with her eloquence; then rushes to the recruiting stations, where she out the youths who do not want fight, and makes them fight."

"The frail hands of Carmen themselves on the rough iron rifle. She and other young women shoot at the young insubordinates whom only yesterday caused to blush, under the elous glances of their jet eyes."

"Pretty good Carmens, you wit, who could make young Irish soldiers blush, with a glimmer and you agree with Monsieur Fleury's thoughtful observation."

"Not the least tragic side of Spanish drama, is the growth of female which female has only yesterday voluptuous, has wound and inflicted death."

You hope not, and so do we who can tell? Long ago French King wrote the truth in his lady's window, "Often changes."

For a man outside of the everything seems easy; they are easy when the outsider becomes the insider and carries the load.  Meet Dolores Ibarruri.
 Have We Such Carmens?
 One Dream Fades?
 Cats, Dogs and Men.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

EXCITING situations always produce some lady who adds the finishing touch-like the lady with a red parasol at a national convention, and the innumerable small fry Jeanne d'Arc who "make the front page" in big strikes.
 The Spanish rebellion has developed, on the side of the Radical Government, a lady Captain worth while.

Her real name, Dolores Ibarruri, would satisfy Hollywood, for a heroine name, but it is not romantic enough for Spain; she is called La Pasionaria by Spaniards who follow and obey her.
 Let the Paris Soir "special envoy," Monsieur J. G. Fleury, describe her—no non-Latin could do her justice:
 "Stop! Show your papers."
 "I turn. It is Carmen, a ferocious Carmen, who fixes me with a sparkling eye. She still has the heart-catching curls, on the temples, but instead of the mantilla, wears a man's shirt, blue, with red cravat.
 "Come on—hurry." Across her back she carries a Mauser rifle; against my stomach she presses a pistol as long as that of a Fenimore Cooper hero. Hastily I show my passport. "It is perfect, Monsieur the Frenchman, you may circulate."
 "I try to enter into conversation;
 I address a compliment to her; but with a firm gesture she repels this foolishness and rejoins her companions, all armed to the teeth and as grave as funeral statues."

Try to have a romance with one of those Communist Carmens—you could not, they are too busy enjoying themselves, shooting insurgents.
 Dolores Ibarruri, of the long pistol and fierce eyes, practically manages the whole thing, according to Monsieur Fleury.

"Amazing woman, indefatigable, she runs from the field of battle to the studio, to broadcast and sustain the Government, with her bitter eloquence; then rushes to the recruiting stations, where she drags out the youths who do not want to fight, and makes them fight.
 "The frail hands of Carmen skin themselves on the rough iron of her rifle. She and other young women shoot at the young insurgent soldiers whom only yesterday they caused to blush, under the audacious glances of their jet black eyes."

Pretty good Carmens, you will admit, who could make young Spanish soldiers blush, with a glance;
 and you agree with Monsieur J. G.
 Fleury's thoughtful observation:
 "Not the least tragic side of this Spanish drama, is the gruesome waste with which female hearts, only yesterday voluptuous, hasten to wound and inflict death."

Have we, among our beautiful young home-made American Car-mens, any who might change their "catch-heart" permanent waves, for rough muskets, their little silk shirt-waists for rough men's shirts and red cravats, and proceed to shoot the life out of young American men who recently blushed under their fascinating glances?
 You hope not, and so do we; but who can tell? Long ago the French King wrote the truth, on his lady's window, "Often woman changes."

For a man outside of the job everything seems easy; they become as easy when the outsider becomes the insider and carries the load.
 Monsieur Blum, new French
 Prime Minister, first Jewish statesman to hold that position, a highly educated, earnest man, has changed some views and abandoned hopes now that he directs the Government instead of fighting it from the outside. He has admitted in the "dream of disarmament as the basis of security and peace for all in view of the present European en any other nation; she needs all

- 1. Two five-card or longer suits.
- 2. A hand containing one or more aces.

The advantage of the strength-showing jump overall is found in the following cases:

- 1. Suppose South bids one diamond and West, second hand, holds: ♠AK1054 ♥AQJ75 ♦6 ♣32. If West doubles, East's response will probably be two clubs. West must then bid two spades and risk having the bidding dropped (though East may have support for hearts), or bid three spades, which forces him to a game contract even though East may have no support for either suit.

The jump overall shows one of the two suits and gives the proper impression of strength at the same time. It asks for a light raise, yet retains the advantage of being able to pass short of game if partner has a blank.

On many hands, good defense resolves itself down to so simple a matter as counting up to nine or 10. By this, I refer to the fact that, in these cases, all a defender need do is to count the tricks he can plainly see declarer will make against a certain line of defense. If that number will be fatal from the defender's point of view, the defense must be aimed at another chance, no matter how remote! Today's hand is a very simple example of how to count tricks.

WEST opened the five of spades, dummy ducked; declarer won with the queen. Three rounds of diamonds followed, East winning the third. Now it was up to East to take inventory. He later saw that dummy's fifth diamond would become established after his (East's) last stopper should be removed and that declarer's in-sight tricks would thus come to: The spade already won and the ace to come; three diamonds and three clubs—a total of eight. But (and that "but" was the crucial point of the reasoning) one of those tricks (the diamond still to be established) depended on the time element! If East could first establish three tricks for his own side, these in addition to his two diamond tricks would defeat the contract. The question, therefore, was simply where to look for those three tricks. His partner had led a spade and presumably that suit could be established by knocking out dummy's ace. But after that, how could West gain the lead? East would have no more spades to lead to him, and therefore unless West had the heart ace for immediate entry, declarer's tricks would be cashed first. Thus, on a spade-establishment plan, West must hold the heart ace. To establish East's own heart suit, however, West could hold either one of two cards: The heart ace or the heart queen, an incomparably better chance!

So East shifted to the fourth highest heart, and declarer could never take more than eight tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: I bid one spade as dealer, vulnerable, on this hand: ♠KQJ108753 ♠K104 ♠K ♠K My partner said later I either should have opened with four spades or passed. Who was right?

Answer: Your partner was right.

Raspberry Mousse.

Mash one pint raspberries, mix with one-half cup sugar and let stand for an hour. Then force through a fine sieve. Soften in a little cold water one-half tablespoon gelatin. Whip one pint cream. Set gelatin in a pan of hot water until dissolved, and then mix in strained berries and sugar and stir until the mixture thickens, then fold in the whipped cream. Pour into a melon-shaped mold and cover tightly. Bury in ice and salt from three to four hours. Turn out on a paper lace doilie on a pretty platter to serve.

Always break a plain sponge cake with the fingers. It will spoil its texture to slice it with a knife.

DAILY MAGAZINE A COMEDienne OF OLD TIMES

Flora Finch, Who Was With John Bunny, Is Still on the Screen

JOHN BUNNY and Flora Finch, remember those names? Back in the days of the old Vitaphone Studio, when some of the earliest motion pictures ever made were filmed on the roof of a downtown New York building, John Bunny and Flora Finch were names to conjure with. Whenever a show gave signs of "flopping," the theater manager dug up a print of a Bunny-Finch comedy, and the audience went home hilarious.

John Bunny died in 1916. Flora Finch, who made 52 one-reelers a year with him, for three years, and then a series of two-reelers, is still on the screen, her latest part that of a New York East Side scrub-woman in M-G-M's "The Devil Is a Sissy."

"And the funny thing is," she said on the New York street set between shots, "that we had a boy at Vitaphone who was just as popular then as Freddie Bartholomew is now. Kenneth Casey was his name. He did all the child roles. And to think of it! I hadn't seen him from the time I left there until just a couple of days ago when he walked up to me as I was waiting for the bus. He's a projectionist at this very studio."

It was at the old Biograph Studio on Fourteenth street, New York, that Flora Finch started her film career. A stage comedienne of 10 years' standing, had made her mark with Gen Greet in England, making her debut in "Midsummer Night's Dream," she was sent one day by her New York agent to see D. W. Griffith, who immediately picked her from a waiting group, as a likely screen candidate.

"Florence Lawrence was the star and we were doing a dining room scene," Miss Finch recalls of that first day before the camera.

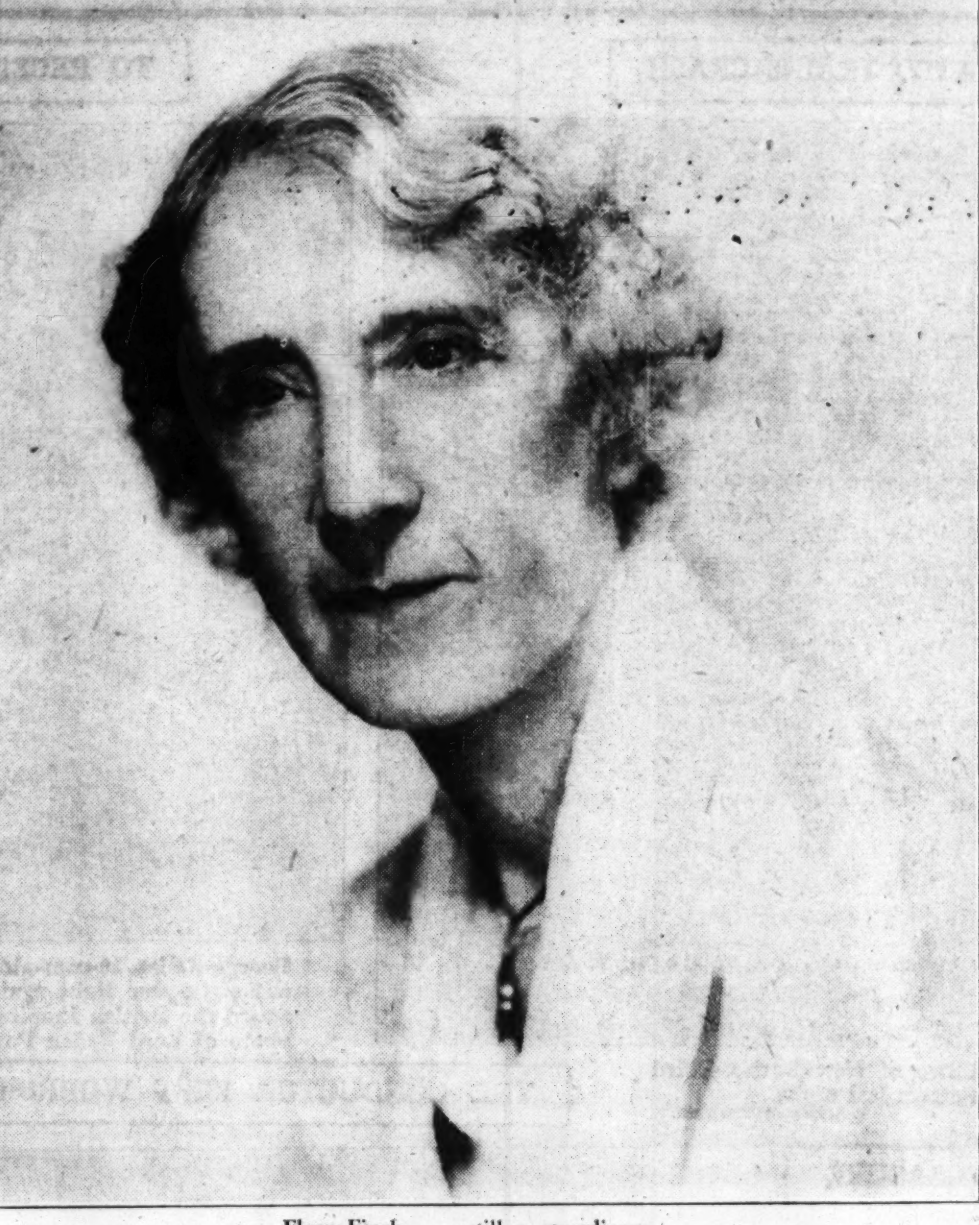

"We'd only been working a half hour or so when Mr. Griffith came up to me and asked me if he had my telephone number. I assured him that he had. And yet twice again that day he repeated the same question. And was I tickled!"

"Those were the days when an actor did stage engagements during the winter and sometimes ventured into pictures during the summer for want of something else to do. But the better-known stage stars were so ashamed of pictures that they would turn their backs on the camera and make others less well known face it. Imagine that these days! At that time films were considered cheap things that couldn't possibly last."

"But we did things in style at the old Biograph. I was appearing in a series of 50-cent meals, we'd go to Jones or something of the sort, and occasionally we'd go on location in very grand automobiles. And in those days automobiles were really something. Then we were the envy of all."

"W. D. Griffith, like working in the morning but we had to be at the studio, just the same. Arthur Johnson was the leading man, and Griffith would tell him to take the ladies of the company to dinner in Greenwich Village, which was just around the corner, so to speak. Then, after a 50-cent meal, we'd go to Jones or something of the sort, and occasionally we'd go on location in very grand automobiles. And in those days automobiles were really something. Then we were the envy of all."

There was just one dressing room for all the ladies, and was it hot and stuffy.

Flora Finch... still a comedienne.

"After that summer I returned to the stage, but a vaudeville act in which I was appearing wasn't too successful, so I went to the Vitaphone studio, which started on that downtown roof and then moved to Flatbush."

"The first picture in which I appeared was 'The New Stenographer.' Florence Turner was the stenographer who was leaving, and I was the cousin who took her place. This was a new kind of comedy, because it wasn't slapstick, and it met with tremendous success. So much so, that at a meeting of theater owners in New York, I was teamed with John Bunny. I wanted to do dramatic roles but couldn't, for every time I appeared on the screen, people would start laughing, regardless of what I was doing. We did so many one-reelers that when people say, 'Oh, I remember you in such and such a thing,' I myself probably can't remember it at all. "My most vivid memory is of the time we were shooting scenes at Coney Island and my red flannel petticoat dropped around my feet, whereupon the director, very gallantly, dashed over, picked it up and hid it under his coat. How long has it been since anyone wore one of those things?"

For four years, until John Bunny decided to return to the stage with his own company, he and Flora Finch were co-starred.

Florence Turner was known as "The Vitaphone Girl," and I'd like to say something very nice about her," said Miss Finch. "She helped with the settings, the set dressing and the costumes. And she was the cashier who gave us our pay each week. Later her mother took over some of these duties. Florence Turner and Maurice Costello were the famous dramatic team of the period. It was Maurice who first upset all precedent by absolutely refusing to carry a hammer around with him. All the men were supposed to carry a hammer, for they never knew when they'd have to turn carpenter and help nail the scenery together. But Maurice won his point, and actors became just actors, and carpenters just carpenters. Dolores and Helene Costello, Maurice's young daughters, then about 5 and 7, appeared in the Bunny-Finch comedies. They were very sweet.

"Then there was Norma Talma, for whom I predicted a stellar future, for she had a mark like a star right in the middle of her hand. And Constance and Natalie and their mother were all there, waiting for the director to call them. Paul Kelly too, and his younger sister—I'm so glad to see Paul back in pictures now—and Julia Swayne Gordon, who used to play the beautiful menace. Oh yes, and Lillian 'Dimples' Walker, who was more full of the dickens than all the rest put together, but a marvelous girl."

"Of course, I was always being mistaken for Mrs. Bunny, though John was married. He had always intended to have a picture taken, showing Mrs. Bunny on one side of him, and I on the other. But the picture never was taken. The terrible thing is, that I haven't a single picture to-day, which shows me with John Bunny. I've often thought of placing an ad in some of the out-of-the-way papers, in the hope that somebody who has such a picture might be able to send it to me. Someone once took 27 of them from me, and I never did get them back. "Though the most popular comedian of his time, John Bunny wasn't funny off the screen. He was usually asleep. He'd rouse himself when the director called him, go through his scene, then go right back to sleep again. Though he weighed 300 pounds, he could jump up in the air and click his heels three times, when he chose."

After her five years at Vitaphone, Flora Finch returned to the stage, principally musical comedy, then freestyle in pictures, several of which she made at the old Famous Players studio in New York. Her first Hollywood effort was in "Quality Street" with Marion Davies, 10 years ago.

"And why shouldn't I still be in pictures?" she demanded, in answer to a question. "What about my Robson? What about my old friend Marie Dressler, who was proud to die in harness? Yes, of course, I lost all my money—in real estate. How old am I now? No, I'm not going to be dated like that."

"Once I stayed out of pictures for three years, from 1930 to 1933. When I tried to get back it was terrible. Nobody knew me. 'What was your last picture, Miss Finch?' was the constant question. It was a critical time, of course, because critics were just beginning. That's why I'm not going to stay out any more, if I can help it."

"Ben Graet always told me that Bernhard himself couldn't hold an audience, if I first made it laugh. And just as long as I can make people laugh, I'll be satisfied."

As a Woman Looks Around In New York

A Bit of Fashion Advice—Saratoga in Its Social Stride.

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. IT SEEMS to me that no matter how long I growl this town in search of the elusive item, and no matter how wide my seeming acquaintance with the dress trade, which has often been my particular concern, I am always in the position of one going hopefully to school with a red apple.

For instance, I have just been taking a thorough course in metal cloth—that shimmering, lovely fabric which has in the past few years played such an important part in evening wear. Always a favorite in the theater, because of its glamour, it now has come to be equally popular in the ballroom. Lame, of course, is the name applied to the metal cloth weave, and is now used synonymously with the term metal cloth itself. It is made by an involved process of winding tinsel, of the sort used for Christmas tree decoration, about wool yarn.

It is their care, however, which chiefly concerns us—if we are lucky enough to own one of those beautiful garments such as Vionnet made so sensationally last season. The great enemy of the metal cloth dress is, of course, the tarnishing caused by oxidation. This being an act of God, there is little we can do about it save take a few precautions which help retard their ruinous process.

They must be kept away from other garments with leather belts, dyed fur trimmings or hard rubber buttons, and should be hung separately on wood hangers, for rubber is one of their worst foes. They should be pressed on the wrong side, using a cool iron. That is about all we can do—save wear them prudently, and pray that oxidation be slow.

"THE SPA" opened slowly, and Saratoga is only beginning to strike its social stride. The great Mrs. Payne Whitney, owner of the famed Greenlee Stable, did manage to make the opening days, but did not see the racing from her box in the clubhouse. With a broken leg encased in a cast, she saw her colors run from her car in the field. The traditional prize beauty of Saratoga, Mary MacKinnon Johnson, had a rival this time in the lovely person of Princess Elsie Moore Torlonia, who is a Greenwich, Conn., girl.

But "The Spa" opened, and is going strongly. I still hope to bet a few of my hard-earned shillings on a ridiculous tip from a guest friend.

OUR futures are now safe, ever since the fortune-tellers have organized to keep quacks out of their devious profession. Having attended the meeting at which they vowed bitter war on charlatans, I can report that the accepted costume for the lady soothsayer is still the good old gypsy uniform, while the men may wear any type of business suit as long as it is accompanied by a turban. Miss Helena A. Perota, who also came as a gypsy, is the lady president of the organization.

Whatever remains of the Oriental influence in the mode is still traceable to the influence of the bejeweled and fabulously wealthy Maharane of Kachh, who had half of slayish New York in velleis last season. The Maharane has taken her rubies off to Paris but her mark is still left upon Gotham's styles, as I find in my daily traipsing among the shops.

I saw the most striking contrast of beaded and jeweled at a dinner the other day. Seated side by side were Madame Majeska, once an illustrator of books and now a decorator of modern homes, and Lady Wilkins, wife of the explorer. Majeska is dark and sleek and Spanish—Lady Wilkins (one of our leading diners-about) is the tawny panther type. I had a hard time concentrating in my bore d'oeuvres, just seeing the pair of them side by side.

If you were to ask me the event which has this town most excited at the moment, it is the arrival, in less than a week, of the famed and beloved D'Oyly Carte Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company, which won all our hearts two seasons ago. They will be here for six or eight weeks, and local Savoyards are saving up for season tickets! (Copyright, 1934.)

Not if you use Dioxogen Cream

No dry, dull, scaly skin. No peeling

The blazing hot Summer sun often does more harm than good... it burns, it destroys the skin tissues and it paralyzes the natural functions of the skin glands. The skin becomes dry, drawn up, and dead.

Dioxogen Cream helps keep the skin tissues alive. It re-awakens the skin glands. Use Dioxogen Cream all through the Summer and by Autumn you will have a skin that is lovely clear and fresh and fair... a skin for men to admire.

There is no other cream in the world that has captured nature's oxygen... to beautify your skin. Use it every night, as a cleanser. Use it as a powder base. Apply it after exposure to the sun.

Invitations And Note of Appreciation

By Emily Post

DEAR Mrs. Post: My sister and I would like to give an evening party for a third sister who is stopping off to see us while on her wedding trip. As she has visited in this town often, and naturally has many friends here who would love to see her and meet her husband. Comes the question of invitations. This will be a big party but it is to be very friendly and informal and we do not want invitations engraved, or even printed. But I don't see how we can write everything on visiting cards, because, in addition to the names and the time of the party, the name of one of the hosts will have to be hand-written under the engraved name on the card. Will you please suggest what we can do?

Answer: For this especially long visiting card invitation I would suggest that you use the folded card that gives you double space inside.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there anything you could recommend that I do in appreciation of the excellent services of a personal shopper, who employed by X. and Company? She has always met me just exactly what I wanted, and a little while ago some one else in the store shopped for me and everything was wrong. I complained and asked that my regular shopper handle future orders. Is there anything I can do which would be especially kind, besides write a personal note to the young woman, which I have done.

Answer: Nothing you could do for her would be more helpful than writing a letter of appreciation to her employers.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it unreasonable to expect people who accompany my husband and me on summer mobile trips to share the expense of the journey? So often we are friends to drive several hundred miles with us over a week-end, assuming that they will do their share, and until the holiday is over we find that we have even paid for a great many of their meals in addition to all the gasoline and storage of the car.

Answer: If you ask people to stay away over a week-end with you, they naturally expect to be your guests for everything. If you do not intend this, you should explain when you give your invitation that you mean a pay party and the means, of course, that your guests will pay their own hotel bills. The owner is always expected to pay all expenses of the car, unless it is especially understood that the guests will pay their share of gasoline and garage bills.

After this, cut the background of the design to a depth of a one inch. Then put water color on the potato in half, making a light show card point on this and as you would a stamp.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM a girl 13 years old. I have some talent for playing piano. I have taken a few lessons, not many, and I wonder any of your readers have any piano songs (sheet music) that I have grown tired of or do want? It is hard to get it out of this little town.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr: I NOTICED a letter signed "gusted" in your column in response to my letter recently and I hope she will see my reply. She advises me to "ditch" my young man. I am a little sorry that such has been her experience after 25 years of marriage, but I feel I would be foolish to give up my home for a picture and let some other man enjoy my home and companionship? I wouldn't up the fight so easily, unless, course, I cared nothing for my band, but I love him deeply, our married life together has been blissfully happy.

He is a hard-working man, on getting ahead and paying for his home and raising our children. He bought a car just to take the children and me out on picnics and the like. I don't even use the car to go to work, but leave it for my benefit. Since the trouble has been more loving than I was of the whole situation, and how much more he loves for the attitude I took.

I believe I have used the tactics in this situation, for my ears would do no harm, my husband is 6 and weighs 103. I would like to know what you and others think of my attitude and the way I manage my difficulty, and, whether, all, it would be better to do "Disputed" suggests?

My feeling is that if the thing happens again, and a man that would be time enough to think about separation. Thanking you for your interest, "Disputed," with best wishes, dear Mrs. Carr, I am C.D.

Your experience and the outcome through your kindly and unimpaired handling, is heartening. Only hope it will not be necessary in your case, to take the other side of view.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM sorry I've not answered your letter sooner, but I've been at camp. Well, anyway, this is how I make "potato prints," the girl's for:

Choose the Irish potato that you want and stand it on end on its side, on paper and draw around it, being sure to keep pencil straight up and down. Draw your design in this area. The potato in half, making a light show card point on this and as you would a stamp.

Tradition Gets A Shave

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

ENGLISH tradition is taking a licking during the present administration. The first thing Edward did was to set the castle clocks at the right time. He also encourages garden parties and gentle amusement during periods of court mourning.

All English rulers face a certain way on coins. Edward reversed this tradition because he parts his hair on the right side.

No monarch has ever answered the telephone before. A royal subject fainted when he heard the King answer. "It's me." So they changed the subject.

Most revolutionary of all is that Yeoman of the Guard were given royal permission to abandon their beards. The Guard was established by Henry VII in 1485, as the crow flies. They wear Tudor uniforms, red tunics, ruffs and flat hats. They were the first ruff necks.

Tradition without whiskers is not tradition. A Yeoman without a beard is a spy. We admit that a lamb chop without parsley is still a lamb chop. But a Yeoman is not official without his maulinary spinach. Give 'em back their whiskers so that in case of mutiny we will be able to get our favorite grip.

22 KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS TRUCK IN QUEBEC

Vehicle Loaded With Boys Returning From Political Meeting Past Autos on Track in Path of Freight.

4 JUMP TO SAFETY, 11 OTHERS INJURED

Bodies Strewn Along Road Wreckage Burns—Coroner Starts Investigation Grade Crossing Tragic Near Louisville.

By the Associated Press. LOUISVILLE, Que., Aug. 13.—Twenty-two men and boys, returning from a political rally, killed today and 11 others were badly injured when a Canadian freight train struck the vehicle in which they were riding. Four jumped to safety as the plowed into the vehicle at a crossing, one mile west of this place.

Witnesses to the accident, the truck passed two cars which had halted before the tracks moved onto the crossing directly in the path of the train.

The victims, all residents of Louisville and the surrounding community, had attended a political campaign debate in St. J. between L. J. Thiel, Liberal member of the Quebec Parliament, and Paul Caron, Union Nationale candidate.

Edmond Houliet, 40 years driver of the truck, was the victim identified by police. Several of the victims were boys from 16 years of age.

Survivor's Story. Fernand Toussaint, 17-year-old textile mill worker, one of the survivors who jumped from the truck, gave the following account of the accident:

"We approached the crossing and five or six cars. As we stopped, the driver of the truck, apparently wishing to pass the automobiles, turned the left and went past the stop sign."

"I did not hear the train. I was in the back of the truck. I heard voices in the front saying: 'Don't pass. Don't pass.'"

"When I heard the shouts, I figured something must be wrong, so I pushed my way to the front and jumped over. I landed in the ditch. I heard nothing for a minute, not even the crash of the train and truck."

"I felt a pain in my left arm, crawled out of the ditch and saw the long train coming. I heard no crash, but great pain from up the tracks at the field where the truck had pitched."

Bodies Strewn Along Tracks. Bodies and wreckage were strewn along the railroad track. The terrific force of the collision at the truck along the rails and caught fire and burned.

The injured were taken to Three Rivers Hospital, 15 miles from Louisville.

Dr. Thomas Caron, coroner, gave an immediate investigation, establishing a temporary morgue in a garage.

Seventeen of the victims killed outright, and within a few hours, five others had succumbed to their injuries.

Canon Elise Panneton, the Donat Baril and Abbe Paul Carufel administered last rites to the injured. Four local physicians were overtaxed to care for the victims.

The Canadian Board of Rail Commissioners at Ottawa ordered a full investigation. Premier Meighen sent a message of sympathy to Wilfrid Gariepy, Liberal member of Parliament for Three Rivers.

SLIGHT RISE IN LIVING COSTS

July Prices Up in All Major Groups Except Clothing.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Living costs of wage earners in July according to a survey issued today by the National Industrial Conference Board, were 1.1 of 1 per cent higher than in June and 3.4 per cent higher than in July, 1935.
